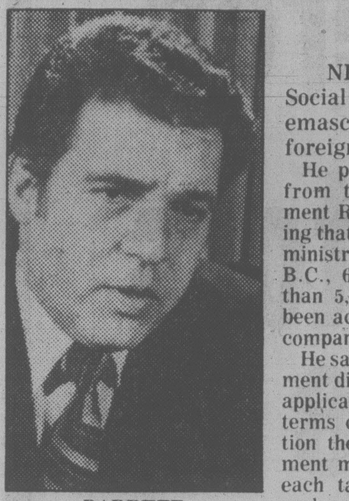
Socreds Abetted Foreign Firms, Barrett Charges



BARRETT

By PAUL NICHOLSON
Times Staff

NDP leader Dave Barrett charged today the Social Credit government was behind the successful emasculation of the federal agency which screens foreign investments in Canada.

He produced documents from the Foreign Investment Review Agency showing that since the Socred administration took office in B.C., 63 firms with more than 5,000 employees have been acquired by American companies.

He said the Socred government did not oppose a single application although under terms of the FIRA legislation the provincial government must be consulted on each takeover before federal approval is given.

And he claimed Premier Bill Bennett's widely publicized blocking of the takeover of MacMillan Bloedel by Canadian Pacific Investments Ltd. was nothing but a smokescreen.

Barrett said the sudden Bennett opposition to Montreal's Canadian Pacific Investments taking over of Mac-Blo was simply a "sham battle deliberately used as a smokescreen" to hide B.C.'s willingness to allow indiscriminate foreign investment.

"Bennett's big mac attack is in the best tradition of Canadian politics: 'when in trouble, kick the CPR'," Barrett said.

He said Mac-Blo was an unwitting participant in a political manoever.

The NDP leader produced dozens of pages of documents — including secret reports to the federal cabinet — to back his claim that the Socreds conspired with the federal government to weaken FIRA.

Barrett quoted from statements by Bennett and some of his cabinet ministers in which they complained to the federal goverment that FIRA's restrictions were turning away potential foreign investors from the province.

He also unveiled a report from Trade and Industry Minister Jack Horner to the federal cabinet in which Horner singled out B.C. as the lone objector to the FIRA position.

Horner reported to cabinet that the principle advantage to watering down FIRA "would be removal of a major potential cause of federal/provincial conflict, especially with B.C."

Barrett says Horner opposed weakening FIRA but was overruled by the federal cabinet and FIRA regulations were watered down as a result.

The former premier accuses Trudeau of going along hand-in-hand with Bennett.

FIRA has recently been criticized as being little but a rubber stamp, having approved more than 90 per cent of all applications before it.

Quoting from FIRA documents, Barrett outlined what he called an alarming acceleration of foreign takeovers in B.C.

FIRA said that in 1976 nine B.C. companies were taken over which involved 1,150 employees; in 1977 26 companies were taken over involving a further 1,010 employees and last year FIRA approved 37 company takeovers in B.C. involving about 2,000 employees.

B.C. also sold Panco Poultry and Greyline Bus Tours to American companies but the sales did not require FIRA approval because they were Crown corporations.

Barrett said in October, 1977, a wire story from Ot-

IT'S EDWARD

OTTAWA (CP) — To his home town friends in Beausejour, Man., and to his mom, Elizabeth, he is known as Ed.

Now that he will soon be Governor-General, he wants to be known as Edward.

That's the word which filtered down to reporters from government officials Wednesday during a briefing on Edward Schreyer's investiture Monday as Governor-General.

"It is to be Edward for official purposes," said a government spokesman. He did not know what the former Manitoba premier wanted to be called for unofficial purposes.

Gas Going Up 3¢ In April

Capital Regional District residents face a three-cents-per-gallon gasoline and diesel fuel price hike April 1, regional director Bill Tindall said Wednesday.

Tindall, chairman of the district's transit services committee and of the provincially appointed Urban Tranport Authority, said the increase will be used to finance public-transportation which the provincial government is handing over to the regional district.

The UTA is expected to agree that the entire regional district, including the outer Gulf Islands, be included in the transit system when it meets Friday.

Tindall announced the expected increase Wednesday after the committee approved in principle to ask for letters patent to take over the transit system and a work program, transit service agreement and the gasoline tax bylaw.

The B.C. Hydro and Power Authority has been claiming for some time that the high cost of power has been partially due to the need to subsidize public transit systems in Victoria and Vancouver.

But Tindall said regional district residents can expect no reduction in power bills once transit is handed over to the regional district.

Instead, he said, residents can expect increased power costs two years from now. (The provincial government has agreed to a 75-25 cost-sharing formula for the first two years).

Residents will also be faced with the costs of a major bus replacement program, Tindall said, adding that Hydro made no provision for a replacement program during its years of operation.

Food Up 15% In Past Year

OTTAWA (CP) — The cost of living rose by an average nine per cent last year, the largest annual increase since the government imposed price wage controls in 1975.

Year-end figures released by Statistics Canada today show that food prices went up by 15.5 per cent last year and prices for all other consumer goods went up by 6.4 per cent.

Last year's nine-per-cent increase in living costs outpaced the increase in the average worker's earnings by about three per cent, preliminary indications are.

Year-end wage and salary figures have not been released by the government. But latest available statistics show that by the end of October, earnings were 5.8 per cent higher than one year earlier.

While the year-end figures provided workers with a clear illustration of why it was hard to stretch their budgets to meet the in-

U.K. Delays Calling Troops

Times News Services

LONDON — As Conservative MPs jeered, Britain's Labor government decided today not to declare a state of emergency to break a stranglehold on essential supplies caused by a truck drivers' strike that is crippling the economy.

Prime Minister James Callaghan told the House of Commons a declaration of an emergency and use of troops probably would not speed up the movement of such goods as foodstuffs and animal fodder.

He said a voluntary code of conduct had been issued to the strikers by the Transport and General Workers Union (TGWU), instructing them to confine their picketing to enterprises directly involved in the dispute.

Callaghan said the decision not to call a state of emergency — at least for now — emerged from a meeting Wednesday night with Moss Evans, general secretary of the TGWU, and Len Murray, secretary-general of the Trades Union Congress, an umbrella federation representing 11 million unionized workers.

With 500,000 workers already laid off by companies starved for raw materials or glutted with output they cannot ship out, government and business leaders warned of disastrous effects on the economy if the two-week-old disruption continues. Railway service also was halted by the second 24-hour engineers' strike in three days.

The Emergency Powers Act, if eventually invoked, will empower the government to requisition trucks and order troops to move essential goods. The act was last invoked for four months in 1973-74 during a coal miners' strike.

It was under consideration because union leaders were unable to get the strikers to comply with a pledge by the leaders to free shipments of livestock fodder and other key supplies.

A food shortage, though not apparent yet on market shelves, was described as inevitable as production slumped to 10 per cent of normal. Some hoarding by shoppers was reported and some supermarkets have begun rationing.

Bread might soon be in short supply. Bakers say vital ingredients of salt and fat have not been getting through picket lines.

Fruit and vegetables from abroad are being redirected to markets in other countries because of the strikers' stranglehold on British ports.

Tesco, one of the country's biggest supermarket chains, says rationing had been introduced in certain stores and has warned of shortages of toilet paper, eggs and soap.

A spokesman said butter,

IRA Torches Gas Tanks

LONDON (UPI) — Irish Republican Army bombers blew out a storage tank containing seven million cubic feet of natural gas today and blasted a Texaco tank holding 100,000 tons of aviation fuel.

They were the most spectacular and materially damaging attacks in nearly 10 years of periodic IRA bombings in Britain.

No deaths or injuries were reported in the separate blasts at Greenwich on the south bank of the Thames River and Canvey Island, Britain's biggest fuel storage depot 30 miles east on the northern side of the Thames estuary.

An anonymous caller told police and the Press Association news service the IRA set the bombs. His call came after the Canvey island explosion but before the Greenwich blast.

Scotland Yard said it believed the bombs were set by IRA "sleeper units" activated after years of residence in Britain.

The attacks on the highly flammable storage installations came hours after police arrested four suspected IRA bombers in London.

The blast at a gas works in Greenwich on the banks of the Thames River, destroyed a storage tank filled to capacity with 7 million cubic feet of gas.

A second storage tank exploded two hours later, throwing a hazy orange glow over Greenwich.

Davis Loses Appeals

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jack Davis, a former cabinet minister with the Social Credit government, lost appeals Wednesday against a fraud conviction and sentence that forced him to resign from the provincial legislature last September.

Davis, a professional engineer and former Rhodes scholar, was convicted on charges that he had downgraded first-class airline tickets while on government business and kept the difference. He was fined $1,000 and placed on probation for two months.

Davis, conducting his own appeal, told the British Columbia Court of Appeal that it was not a crime to obtain money that was rightfully his under the law.

The province paid for the tickets and he was not asked at any time to account for the expenses.

Davis said the downgrading is done by government officials at all levels, as well as by senior armed forces personnel, the diplomatic corps and union and company officials.

Blacks Riled at Disco Discrimination

VANCOUVER (CP) — A black rights' group says some downtown discotheques are refusing admission to black customers, but one club owner says admission policies have been tightened only to clean up trouble on the nightclub strip.

"Eighty per cent of the trouble on this strip falls on blacks," said Barry Williams, owner of Misty's Cabaret, one of the Hornby Street clubs named in complaints to the Black Solidarity Association.

Association president Delicia Crump said the group will present to a city council committee next Thursday 10 written complaints from blacks who say they were refused admittance and were physically or verbally abused at local clubs. There have been many other informal complaints.

Ms. Crump said blacks not involved in the association might take matters in their own hands if city council and police don't stop the discrimination.

Williams, however, said club owners only want to protect their property and to clean up problems in the area, famous for the street-corner crowd (including known prostitutes) it attracts at night.

"Blacks have been causing trouble by dope-pushing and pimping, and we're not going for it at all," he said.

Williams said admission policies are not a result of prejudice. The club employs several blacks and has "10 or fifteen regular black customers."

However, new black customers, unlike whites, must prove "that they've got a proper job, that they're a proper citizen," he said.

When asked if innocent people might inadvertantly be turned away by such a process, Williams replied: "Unfortunately, that probably could happen."

Williams said some blacks have hassled waitresses and customers at his club, gotten into fights and then threatened violence when asked to leave. The problem has decreased since admission policies were tightened.

Harry Moll, part owner of Sugar Daddy's, another Hornby Street club, said blacks were involved in a Jan. 9 altercation that resulted in $1,200 damage to mirrors at the club.

After the incident, which allegedly began when a black was refused admission, police charged four women with creating a disturbance and a fifth with common assault.

Crump said all the women were black and that several were physically abused by club staff. Her group is trying to achieve change through legal avenues.

Williams said the association is composed of troublemakers.

She rejected Williams' claim that all blacks refused admission are involved with drugs and prostitution.

"You have white pimps, but not all white people are pimps," Crump replied.

NEW MEDIATOR SOUGHT

Another mediator is being sought to speed up the negotiating procedure at the municipal level with the latest application coming from the union representing city inside workers.

Rick Doyle, president of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, Local 388, said today the executive voted unanimously Wednesday to apply for a mediator.

Earlier this week, Carl Anshelm, chief negotiator for the Greater Victoria Labor Relations Association, asked for a mediator in the association's contract battle with a joint bargaining committee, representing five other CUPE locals.

Anshelm accused the locals of stalling, the same charge that Doyle levelled at the employers' negotiator.

Doyle says he asked Anshelm last Thursday for a meeting and is still waiting for him to arrange a bargaining session.

He said Anshelm is getting paid to arrange such meetings and bargain for the employers, while he is getting paid as a computer programmer at city hall.

"I don't have the time he does to charge around and arrange the meetings."

He said Local 388 is also sending a letter to the mayor and council explaining the reasons for seeking a mediator at this stage.

Icebreakers to Carry Gas?

OTTAWA (UPC) — Giant icebreaking carriers could carry liquefied natural gas from the high Arctic to eastern Canada by 1983 if a $1.5 billion project proposed by Petro Canada is accepted.

PetroCan President Bill Hopper said Wednesday supplying 250 million cubic feet of gas daily to eastern Canadian customers would allow an equal amount of western gas to be sold to the United States at prices high enough to cover the cost of project in about 20 years.

The gas would be carried by pipeline from the north of remote Melville Island to a floating liquefaction plant on the south coast and loaded aboard two 335-meter-long supercarriers that would operate year-round.

Hopper said the consortium had applied to the National Energy Board for permission to export gas and had also asked the Transport Department and the Indian and Northern Affairs Department to approve aspects of the project.

The gas delivered by the $250 million ships, equal to about 40,000 barrels of oil daily, would provide the first return for companies that have explored the inaccessible region for oil and gas.

"We found about 13 trillion cubic feet, including about 9 trillion cubic feet on Melville Island," Hopper said.

The nationally-owned oil company, in co-operation with Alberta Gas Trunk Line Company Ltd. and Melville Shipping — a consortium of the largest Canadian shipping companies — wants to carry the gas eastward through the Northwest Passage and south to an eastern port.

The gas would then be inserted into an eastern natural gas pipeline that at present does not extend beyond Montreal. Applications have been made by other groups to extend the pipeline from the present terminus to Quebec City and the Maritimes.

Former RCMP Chief Dies

Funeral services will be held here Monday for R.S. S. Wilson, a former RCMP superintendent and industrialist, who died Wednesday at the age of 72.

A specialist in narcotics and counter-espionage, he was commanding officer of the St. John, N.B., Regina and Winnipeg RCMP subdivisions. During the Second World War he was security control officer for New Brunswick.

Wilson was the Aluminum Co. of Canada's personnel manager during construction of the giant Kitimat project in northern B.C., and later the manager of the firm's Vancouver works.

A former chairman of the B.C. division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, he was a member of the provincial labor relations board and board of industrial relations.

Cocaine Haul

VANCOUVER (CP) — RCMP said Wednesday that about two pounds of cocaine with an estimated street value of $500,000 was seized at the Vancouver International Airport last month.

Police said the drug was in boxes mailed from Ecquador.

The information was withheld until Wednesday to protect an investigation by RCMP and United States authorities. No arrests have been made.

Foreign Takeovers Abetted By Socreds

tawa quoted Finance Minister Evan Wolfe as asking the federal government to end screening foreign investments through FIRA.

Wolfe charged that the agency had discouraged foreign investment :"We've got to remove any roadblocks to worthwhile outside investments."

In another story Economic Development Minister Don Phillips accused the federal government of discouraging Japanese investments because of FIRA and claimed FIRA was contributing to the curtailment of capital expansion in B.C.

The NDP leader said Bennett also raised the issue of FIRA dampening investments at last year's first ministers' conference, according to Horner's submission to cabinet.

Barrett says that as a result of B.C.'s pressure and Ottawa's acquiescence, FIRA was watered down, leading to a big jump in foreign takeovers last year.

Fifteen of the 39 takeovers came in the last quarter of 1978, Barrett said.

Barrett says the effect of the growing foreign investments has been an increase in the cost of living and an increase in the export of Canada's natural resources.

The actions have lead to the lowest dollar and highest unemployment since the depression, he added.

Barrett says that virtually four-fifths of total foreign investment in B.C. has been concentrated on buying our existing business interests and assets, not creating new firms or building new industrial plants.

Barrett said Bennett's position that B.C. will not be a branch plant for outside corporations is "a hollow political statement in light of the fact B.C. is deliberately accelerating the sales of its resources."

"B.C. is already a branch plant. If B.C. is not for sale as the premier says, it is because it has already been sold," Barrett said.

A weather disturbance pushing across the province overnight is expected to bring some precipitation to all but the southeastern corner of B.C. Slapstick Roadshow Over For Joe the Unfortunate

By Allan Fotheringham, Special to the Times

AMMAN — Led by a giant yellow garbage truck, a tired and discouraged Joe Clark left the city of Jerusalem Wednesday morning, crossed the River Jordan and finished the day by being made to stand for 40 minutes, shifting from foot to foot, waiting for a king.

It was another strange day in the strange world tour of the unfortunate Clark who, like certain Australian wines, does not travel well.

As he flies back to Ottawa today, he has achieved the considerable feat of meeting four world leaders in four countries.

But these gains have been wiped out by an insane travel schedule and the ineptitude of his staff that has left the increasingly cross Clark prone to more and more errors, both verbal and otherwise.

The culmination was an almost-impossible-to-imagine scene Tuesday when those of us watching almost demanded an instant slow-motion replay to confirm what our eyes had witnessed.

On one of the most desolate places on earth — the lonely, windswept heights of the Golan Heights — Clark attempted to inspect the seven-man front line of a Canadian Armed Forces honor guard, made it to the sixth man, took a smart left and, like Houston Oilers football star Earl Campbell trying an off-tackle smash, plunged through the unbudging pride of the Canadian military and almost took his eye out on a bayonet.

By the time he got untracked, did a double reverse and tried to peel back from whence he came, even the friends he brought along were screwing their faces to the sky in horror and humiliation.

In essence, it was the result of the pressure that has left the Conservative leader, in his last two days abroad, with the glazed eyes of some-one who had had 44 museum tours in five countries in 10 days and whose equilibrium has snapped.

It was somehow fitting, then, that when the Clark entourage of a half-dozen speeding limousines and the press bus set out for an early-morning escape from Jersualem, the convoy found itself trapped for its final winding miles behind a huge dirty impactor garbage truck which the TV cameras, of course, captured lumbering along in the lead in great dignity.

When the party reached Amman — after a harrowing high-speed race over a twisting road through the Jordan mountains — King Hussein kept Clark waiting 20 minutes in an ante-room.

Then the exhausted Clark for some reason stood on his feet for another 40 minutes in another cabinet chamber before it was suggested he sit down to wait.

The doughty little king made it quite clear what he was doing.

The Clark people, in a rather puzzling piece of strategy, tried to have it both ways on this trip.

That is, to visit both Israel and one Arab nation.

Since Jordan is just a short jaunt across the famous Allenby bridge that was the country chosen even though there is no Canadian embassy here. Embassy staff from Beirut had to come in to shepherd the Clark visit.

The problem is that the Tory leader — with MP Rob Parker and would-be MP Ron Atkey attempting to secure two Toronto seats with significant Jewish populations — spent three days in Israel and a scant 24 hours in Jordan.

Jordan, the birthplace of Christianity, has seen the Canaanites, the Egyptians, the Babylonians, the Persians, Greeks, Romans, Byzantines and the Crusaders. Jordan has been around and does not like being used for balancing political fodder back home. Half the population of some four million is made up of the Palestinians who were forced to flee the Israeli side of the Jordan.

This is one of the camps where the PLO's Yasser Arafat recruits his terrorists: a stolen Mercedes-Benz with a massive bomb in its locked truck was found within a block or two of Clark's Jersualem hotel.

When the astute Maureen McTeer spotted what was about to happen — with the TV cameras poised — she made to plunge forward.

The idea of Clark, after spending three days in Israel, appearing in Canadian newspapers and on TV screens wearing Arab garb in a PLO refugee camp was too much to bear — especially for the faint Atkey and Parker.

If Clark did not know the danger, his aides did and he was whisked away as if a giant vaccuum cleaner had descended from the clouds.

Last night, at a banquet hosted by King Hussein's consultative committee (the polite name for the body that remains after he abolished parliamentary democracy), the Jordan spokesman delivered a hard-line anti-Israel speech and pointed out that Israel still occupies illegally the Arab land on the west bank of the Jordan.

Clark, to his great credit, though looking so groggy he appeared as if he might disappear face-first into his dish, rose and made quite an admirable little speech. Through his haze, he supposedly didn't notice the empty tables at the rear of the room.

But he said quite strongly that any government he would be associated with was fully behind the State of Israel. When that sank in, he reached rather too far and said, for all the criticism he had heard of how little time he was spending in Jordan, he wondered how many Jordanians had visited Canada.

There was faint sound, quite apparent, of the hiss that in these climes is a not-polite version of the Bronx cheer.

It was a rather indelicate touch by Clark, but it did show his bravado-courage.

Today he attempts a final, incomprehensible vault:

A non-stop flight to New York, hardly a one-hour exchange before going to Toronto for a switch to Ottawa — a journey that will consume 17 hours.

With any luck, he and the woolly dreamers he employs will end up at one end of the world as they started out at the other — without their underwear or their reputations.

CLUE FOUND TO HIJACKER?

KELSO, Wash. (UPI) — The first new "clue" on skyjacker D.B. Cooper in seven years is a report on the finding of an airliner's door placard in a remote heavily forested area about 20 miles north of the previous prime search area.

Cowlitz County Sheriff's Deputy Bob Nix was optimistic the finding of the partially broken placard by an elk hunter would lead to further evidence on what happened to Cooper. The hunter, Carroll Hicks of Kelso, found the placard northeast of Kelso in the Toutle Lake area last November but the find was not disclosed until Wednesday.

Cooper, the name used by the skyjacker on the passenger roster, commandeered a Northwest Airlines Boeing 727 enroute from Portland to Seattle on Nov. 24, 1971, Thanksgiving Eve. Threatening to blow up the passengers and plane with dynamite in his brief case, Cooper demanded $200,000 in ransom, four parachutes and a trip to Reno after the passengers were let off in Seattle.

Cooper disappeared by parachuting on a rainy night from the rear door of the 727. None of the money or any other sign of Cooper has been found despite intensive searches in a large area, generally east of Kelso where it was computed, based on inflight records, that he would have landed.

Deeply Insecure

Conservative MP Walter Baker performs no one any service by thinking out loud about the possibilities of an effective coup d'etat by Prime Minister Trudeau, trying to cling to power past his five-year constitutional mandate.

The Tory House leader's remarks to a Winnipeg constituency meeting (which he made certain were circulated in Ottawa as well) are about on a par with the paranoid musings of the far right, which sees the Liberals' new gun control legislation as the first step towards disarming the citizenry and mounting a communist takeover.

"It may seem ridiculous that a political leader in a democratic country would manipulate the constitution to remain in office after losing an election, but strange things have happened in the last 10 years," said Baker.

He wondered if Trudeau might refuse to hand over the government after the election, particularly if the margin of defeat for the Liberals was very narrow. "Not only does Mr. Trudeau not want to admit defeat, but all the political advisers around him will have a vested interest in urging him to stay on and meet Parliament."

The initial reaction to such curious statements by one of the Conservatives' chief spokesman in the Commons is amazement at the Tories' insecurity, especially given the recent public opinion polls showing Joe Clark and his party well ahead of Trudeau and the Liberals. Is the role of opposition (all but five of the last 44 years) so ingrained in the party of John A. Macdonald that it cannot envision actually taking over one day?

One wonders what "strange things" Baker is referring to. The obvious reference is the October crisis of 1970 when the Trudeau administration used the emergency powers of the War Measures Act to arrest hundreds of Quebecers suspected of involvement with the FLQ.

It was a terrible over-reaction, perhaps seen in hindsight, and Trudeau bears a heavy responsibility for taking Canada one small temporary step towards totalitarianism. But the public's assessment of Trudeau's record, delivered at the 1972 election, shows that Canadians are not so easily manipulated. The results were a sharp setback for the Liberals, who won just two more seats than the Conservatives and held onto the government for two years only with the help of the NDP.

Other "strange things" we cannot recall. Goodness knows, the Liberals are guilty of enough real and imagined sins of misgovernment for which they will have to answer at the polls, without the Tories fabricating any frightening new ones. Are they so deeply insecure that they have to conjure up some awesome bogeyman to run against in place of the real and all too vulnerable opponent they do have?

Public Relations Ploy

Hard on the heels of the announcement of free shares in the B.C. Resources Investment Corporation for all British Columbians come hints from the provincial government of plans to offer residents land for sale as well.

It's a nice-sounding second step in a campaign to have residents own a piece of B.C., but so far it doesn't seem the government is doing much except flying trial balloons on the subject.

For example, it doesn't seem to know how much land is to be made available, in what areas of the province or on what basis. It does know that the land will be offered at close to market prices because it doesn't want to upset existing land values.

These general annoucements raise a great number of questions about the efficacy of the proposal. Although it is true the government owns about 95 per cent of B.C., vast amounts of it consist of land already committed to other uses such as tree farm licences and property no one would want — distant mountaintops and northern forests. There is not much Crown land in the high demand areas of the Lower Mainland, southern Vancouver Island, or the Okanagan. One wonders what the impact of the program will actually be.

Also, if the government is going to sell only at market value, how much will it help ordinary citizens own a piece of B.C. since it is the price of land, more than its scarcity, that prevents many from buying?

More details are required before this program will convince us that it is anything more than a public relations ploy by the government.

In Iran

Headline in today's newspaper: "New Iran Rule in Turmoil."

Will it take more than a day for the Iranians to realize they have replaced a repressive but orderly regime with the chaos of rival groups battling for control, chaos that will probably evolve into another regime more repressive but less orderly?

JAMES RESTON

Kennedy's Still Impressive

WASHINGTON — Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts continues to impress and even to haunt the Democratic party, not only because he is a Kennedy but because he has developed into one of the few really eloquent public speakers in American political life today.

He dominated the recent Democratic party's mid-term convention in Memphis, not so much by the power of his logic on the need for national health insurance as by the passion of his speech.

It is one of the cliches of our time that masters of the written and spoken word have vanished from the political world. According to this theory, the talkers have been replaced at the top of governments by tongue-tied technicians. Eloquence is suspect in this complicated and skeptical age, and even good speakers are usually losers.

Words as Weapons

Adlai Stevenson of Illinois and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota are usually mentioned among the songbirds that didn't quite make it to the top of the tree. This is usually taken as proof that something has happened to the gift of speech since the days of Churchill, Roosevelt and de Gaulle, who used words as primary weapons of political power.

Yet, maybe because of this general decline in effective public speaking, anybody who can still keep a cynical audience awake these days somehow manages to survive.

For example, Ronald Reagan of California, who will be 68 next Feb. 6, is still afloat not because of the power of his thought, or even the ideological yearning of his supporters for a world that is gone, but because he is still an engaging public speaker who looks younger than he is and has mastered the arts of Hollywood and television. He was a good governor, but he is a better actor.

There are others who are coming or who have survived in American politics because they can speak. John Connally of Texas is an example — former governor of his state, former secretary of the navy and of the treasury, Richard Nixon's chosen successor, hated by the Democrats as a traitor to his party, and rejected by many Republican leaders as a newcomer.

But Connally on a platform is almost as spectacular as Roger Staubach of the Dallas Cowboys on the gridiron. He not only looks like a president but thinks he should be one, and has that particular combination of physical charm and eloquence on the stage that will make him a formidable candidate in 1980 if he decides to run.

Daniel Patrick Moynihan of New York has had an unusual influence on the Senate of the United States in his first term, not only because of his long experience in domestic, foreign and intellectual affairs, but because he is thoughtfully, eloquently and sometimes outrageously as clear as a punch in the nose.

EDWARD KENNEDY
... eloquent, forceful speaker

Henry Kissinger survives while other former secretaries of state vanish because he has a historical vision of the nation's problems; the gift of definition, of reducing diversity to identity, and the intelligence, wit and brevity to articulate his views, which give him access to the national press, radio and television.

So even in this stammering and tongue-tied generation, it would probably be wrong to dismiss the influence of words on politics, though the problem differs from one person to another.

President Carter, for example, is a good negotiator in a small room where his courtesy, sincerity, mastery of the subject matter and clarity usually impress a small audience. But on a wide stage before a restless and disparate crowd, he is almost too respectful of everybody's views in a calm but thin and reedy voice that tends to leave his listeners in doubt, and even to make them think, which is not a popular political sport.

Not so Kennedy. He doesn't have to deal with all the ambiguous and contradictory forces a president has to balance at home and abroad these days. He can concentrate on a few carefully chosen issues, and he has two things that contribute to effective public speaking: a good staff and a good pair of lungs.

Orwell's Theory

More than that, he has time and can choose the critical issues of the 1980s. National health insurance may be an excessively expensive and losing issue during the present battle against inflation, but he is sure its day will come. Issues change and so do presidential candidates.

Kennedy, for example, is no longer the youngest of the family tribe, but a junior member of the Senate, but a coming chairman of the Senate judiciary committee, with all its power. He is 46 now, precisely the age when his brother Jack was murdered. He has taken on the girth and confidence of a middle-aged man, and while he has a different style, he is in some ways a more exciting, if less amusing, public speaker than any of his brothers.

Maybe eloquence doesn't matter in a world of three-hour communist speeches where Fidel Castro, the most eloquent of the communist leaders, has given eloquence a bad name. But President Sadat of Egypt startled the world by the eloquence of his address to the Israeli parliament, and Prime Minister Begin of Israel dramatized the gift of language in his Nobel peace prize speech in Norway. So there may still be some hope for George Orwell's theory that language can debase or elevate politics, not much but probably some.

What Does a Holiday Cost?

WASHINGTON — As President Carter and scores of U.S. congressmen rush to declare a 10th national holiday — this one in honor of Martin Luther King, Jr. — nobody has yet dared to ask: can the country afford it?

A callous and politically dangerous question maybe, but the fact is that an annual day of tribute to the slain civil rights leaders would cost the U.S. economy $3.2 billion a year.

That amount, calculated by an economist with the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, reflects lost production if three-quarters of the U.S. labor force of 95 million takes the day off with pay.

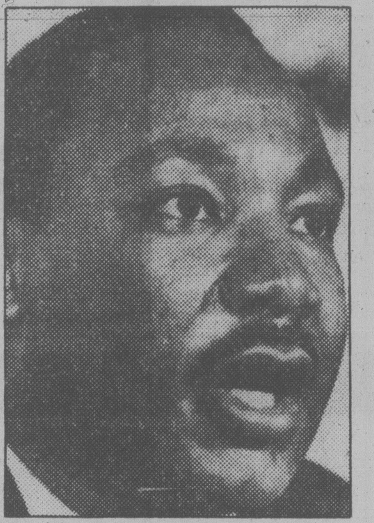
No Free Lunch

"There's no such thing as a free lunch," economist Martin Lefkowitz said in an interview. "Somebody's going to have to pay for it."

In other words, a day of remembrance for King would contribute ever so slightly to the inflationary spiral, since industry would pass on that $3.2 billion in "lost wages" to the consumer.

This hard fact of life has not escaped U.S. administrations in recent years. Since the early 1970s, the American government has been shuffling some of its national holidays to make them fall on a Monday, creating a three-day-weekend which stimulates spending and offsets some of the economic impact.

The enthusiasm for a Martin Luther King Day seems boundless this year, however. A total of 80 congressmen and five senators have co-sponsored bills that would make King's Jan. 15 birthdate a national holiday. President Carter is all for the idea.



MARTIN LUTHER KING
... King Day will cost $3.2 billion

Ironically, other bills introduced at the start of the 96th Congress include a number of measures to slow the inflation rate.

U.S. employers already pay out a total of $35 billion a year in wages for non-work on national and state holidays. Kick in another $55 billion for annual paid vacations, several billion more for sick leave and other days off, and you have an estimated 10 per cent of the entire U.S. payroll going out, as it were, for not working.

"It's the trade-off we all make in an age of leisure," Lefkowitz said philosophically.

Nighttime Holiday

Worried politicians might take their cue from the governor of Colorado, who came up with a novel idea last year. Excited by the success of the Denver Broncos of the National Football League, the governor declared a state holiday in honor of the Super Bowl team.

But then, after adding up the economic impact of such a move, the governor modified his idea: the weekday holiday would begin at 6 p.m. and end at 6 a.m. the next morning.

The compromise saved the state economy millions of dollars.

It's Beyond Me

I am gravely distressed to discover that our MPs (excluding Stanley Knowles) have accepted an increase in salary while insisting on restraint by the public sector.

The reasoning that necessitates the new legislation that will make it so difficult for so many people to qualify for unemployment insurance benefits at a time when it is so necessary for many people to survive is beyond me.

The Liberal government should not be at all surprised by the skepticism and negative outlook the people of Canada show towards them.

It is totally unacceptable that MPs take an increase in salary while reducing family allowances to needy people, restricting unemployment insurance benefits, allowing prices to escalate while wage increases are far below the rising cost of living, and [illegible] labor unrest by its right-wing policies.

It is my hope that the people of Canada will remember the present government's performance (or lack of the same) at the polls next federal election and public apathy will be a thing of the past. — Wayne Mott, 945 Scotia Street.

Priorities Wrong

I would like to appeal to B.C. Government Employees Union members through your newspaper since I am unlikely to reach them through the union paper.

An administrative ruling by the federal government's tax officials is depriving hundreds of us union members of a meal allowance. The government says our employer's principal business is not transportation. We are ferry workers. We are engaged in transportation. Our position is the same as a truck driver working for a conglomerate engaged in many different types of enterprises. He is still a trucker.

If we lose this case, we will each suffer an effective cut in income of hundreds of dollars. When I got an appeal from union members in the Kootenays to solicit donations from my shipmates to pay the cost of legal fees to fight the case, I asked what is my union doing to protect my interests? My ship alone pays over $1,000 dollars a month in union dues. If protecting members' income is not the union's business, what is?

A shop steward just got a sneeringly arrogant letter from a functionary at head office implying that our legal difficulties were of no more interest to the union than a speeding ticket. A business agent said the issue is "as dead as — expletive deleted — in a bucket."

Our component representative was told that the union has no money for what looks to be a very expensive legal fight.

What is our union using our money for? A $100,000 advertising campaign using non-union members, aimed at convincing the public that we are nice.

If other BCGEU members feel as I do that our employees at BCGEU headquarters have their priorities reversed and should cancel this frivolous media hype and instead pay attention to legitimate needs of the membership, please write and express your concerns to the secretary general in Burnaby. — Richard von Fuchs, 115 13th Street, Courtenay.

Animals Helped

Mother Cecilia Mary and all at the Good Shepherd Shelter want to send heartfelt thanks to Gus for his part in the two sales. May we send along with a big thank you to Marty and Rita Gregory and Bill and Eleanor Hazelhurst and their friends for the big turnout for the animals of the shelter.

Your efforts did pay a hefty veterinarian bill. For this the animals feel safer knowing that all efforts are being made to help them from illness.

Your help has helped Mother Cecilia Mary and for this we are truly grateful. This proves that in faith there is love and in love there is unity and strength. God does hear our prayers. — Mrs. Sheila Taylor, secretary, for Sister Mary Julia, O.S.B., Mill Bay.

Coquihalla Road

I wonder how many of your readers are concerned that the B.C. government has not fully explained why there is a need to build the Coquihalla Pass highway?

Surely this will cause greater energy consumption (both during and after construction) at a time when many people are becoming increasingly aware of the need to conserve energy and the environment generally.

I am writing to the minister of the environment to ask how this plan can be justified in view of the obvious environmental concerns as well as the tremendous cost. — H. Mickelson, 2010 Ferndale Road.

23 Million Can't Read

By JONATHAN STEELE
Manchester Guardian

He was standing in the next telephone booth at Denver airport, getting angrier and louder by the minute. Yes, the number on the paper in front of him was definitely the one he had dialled. The operator kept saying it was out of order. What was the name on the paper? Maybe directory assistance could look it up, she said.

"I can't read," he finally shouted, handing the receiver and the paper to me. The girl he wanted to see again had only left him her first name. We discussed the problem for a minute but there was nothing to be done. Doubly humiliated, he hurried down the corridor and was gone.

They call these people the functionally illiterate. this one was white and in his late teens. But he could have been any color, age, either sex. The United States Office of Education estimates that there are 23 million adult Americans who cannot read properly.

Within the last two years, more than 25 states have adopted regulations or passed laws requiring school boards to make sure that 18-year-olds can read and write before they get a high school diploma. Apart from the still simmering issue of court-ordered busing, "minimum competency testing" has become the most explosive issue in American education.

Testing seems the simplest, most direct answer to the problem. Recent opinion polls show that confidence in the public schools is at a low ebb. National scores for college entrants have been declining. Employers complain they cannot find staff who can spell, let alone take shorthand or dictation and polls show that two-thirds of parents insist that schools administer tests.

Frustrated parents have even turned to the law to file "education malpractice" suits against schools for failing to teach properly. Many politicians have seized on the issue.

The teachers' unions have reacted cautiously to the new wave of mandatory testing, fearing it may ultimately become a test of teachers. "Our view is that this country must begin to define the skills it expects its high school graduates to attain. It is incredible that it has not been done before," says Peter Laarman, of the American Federation of Teachers. "To identify and target competency is good, but we don't think that teachers' pay and promotion should be linked to pupils' test scores."

Laarman echoes a common worry that a minimum standard can quickly become maximum standards. Schools will merely drill pupils to pass the mandatory requirements. He also fears that financially pressed school boards will use the new focus on tests to lay off music or arts teachers, allegedly in order to shift resources to the basics, but without increasing the basic teaching staff. But Laarman admits that teachers have broadly accepted the new tests where they have been introduced.

Another criticism deals with the level of the tests. School-boards may set them very low in order to prevent embarrassment if too many children fail.

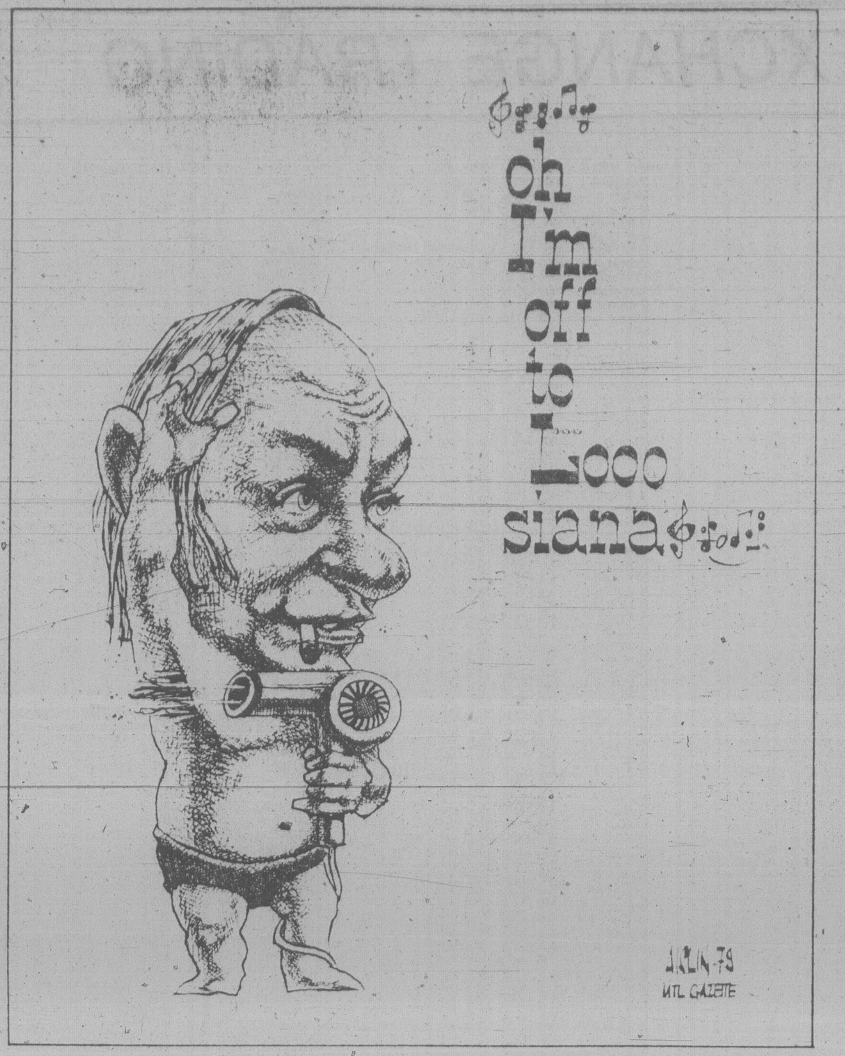
Denver was a pioneer of mandatory testing. It started in 1960 after complaints by local employers about poor spelling and arithmetic. Pupils take the tests for the first time at about the age of 14.

In those days, Denver was predominantly a middle class to upper class city. "Poor performance in school had nothing to do with integration," says Barry Beal, supervisor of the Department of Development and Evaluation in Denver. If people fail the test in the autumn, they repeat it in the spring. If they fail again, they still go up a grade at the end of the year. But some states insist that pupils repeat the year in a lower form if they fail the test.

Denver's pupils have six more chances to pass the test before leaving high school. "We only deny diplomas to about 1 to 3 per cent of our pupils," says Beal. "In the first test in the 9th grade, between a third and a quarter fail." But the low final failure is less impressive than it seems, since hundreds of pupils still drop out of High School early.

Florida is one of a few states which have devised a "life" skills test in which high school graduates have to know how to write a cheque, fill out a job application, and do simple household calculations.

The National Academy of Education, which set up a panel to study testing at the federal government's request, condemned statewide tests as "basicaly unworkable" and "creating more social problems than they can conceivably solve". They felt the focus should be on teaching the basics in primary school and then expanding the curriculum to use the basic skills rather than testing later.



Star-Crossed Minister

By DOUGLAS FISHER

OTTAWA — There are reasons why no one has lamented the resignation this month from Parliament of the Hon. Jean-Pierre Goyer. The most star-crossed Liberal cabinet minister since the late Guy Favreau, he was obtuse when speaking English.

Jean Marchand had a rise and fall that was more spectacular, but there are many in Ottawa and the country who still cherish the cocky old trade union boss.

And Joe Guay, Stanley Haidasz, Pierre Juneau, Bob Stanbury, Jean-Eudes Dube and Jack Davis also slipped away from the ministry, the House and federal politics without much public regret or much reflection by their peers or the press.

GOYER
. . . bitter

Goyer? He's 46. He was an MP for 13 years, a minister for eight, the first two as solicitor-general, the last six as minister of supply and services.

It's hard to remember, and certainly it never meant much in English Canada, that Goyer was one of the few brave ones, like Pierre Trudeau, in his conduct as a youth during the Quebec regime of Maurice Duplessis.

Goyer, with a fellow student, picketed the premier's office for days, seeking an interview to protest Duplessis' policies on universities. This was when the old rogue was supreme and such defiance by students not yet fashionable anywhere in North America.

The Ottawa Citizen editorialized meanly about Goyer's leaving that he needed a long time to take a hint.

"There's lots that can be written about Goyer but since he wouldn't pay any attention when he was in office further comment would be an even greater waste of time now. What more can be said but, Goodbye!"

I have found Goyer very bitter but not vengeful. He holds to the theme, like many French-Canadians before him, that the English media have been unfair to him, and that all ministers from Quebec in Ottawa get a wretched assessment from the intellectuals and separatists of Quebec's journalism.

But he's candid that where he lost out, why he had nothing worthwhile left to give government, was in the enmity or antagonism shown him by Marc Lalonde, now the minister of justice, and apparently Mr. Trudeau's prime counsellor on Quebec affairs.

My hunch is that we haven't heard the last of Mr. Goyer as a public figure. That is, some day in the next two years he will have his say about what happened with the RCMP security service when he was solicitor-general.

PQ Playing Games Of 'Political Fiction'

By WILLIAM JOHNSON

QUEBEC — The worst way to judge politicians is by their sincerity. They all, you can assume, have good intentions. All want full employment without inflation, an end to crime and punishment, peace with prosperity in our times. Good intentions — and lots of asphalt — will pave the road to just about anywhere.

The sincerity of Rene Levesque's proposal for sovereignty-association was defended the other day in an editorial by Michel Roy, respected editor-in-chief of Le Devoir.

Just a Snare?

"Many political figures and journalists are convinced that the manifest evolution of the Parti Quebecois' option is just a snare, a dishonest means of hiding the truth, that in reality Levesque and his colleagues want nothing so much as the separation of Quebec, pure and simple. This interpretation of Quebec political life is not only pessimistic and catastrophe-minded, but downright mistaken."

I can neither agree nor disagree with Roy. Personally, I'll take the proposal of sovereignty-association a little more seriously when I see Levesque spending as much time courting his future associates in English-speaking Canada as he spends in the U.S. or in France. Last week Levesque was in Louisiana for six days, mostly meeting people. When has he spent six days meeting people in English-speaking Canada?

He has attended a number of federal-provincial conferences, and made angry scenes at two. He has been urbanely present at interprovincial conferences where he was a hit with his fellow premiers. But association would demand the assent of the people of Canada. I have never seen those ummistakable signs of a politician courting a constituency, an ardent Levesque wooing the burghers of Moose Jaw or Bonavista.

Would a man serious about association have retained the gratuitously offensive clauses in Bill 101, excluding from English schools children coming here from other provinces? Or the fiction maintained wherever possible in the law that English is unknown in Quebec except as "some other language"?

Levesque doesn't act as though he really wants association. He acts as though the crucial matter for him is that the party talk, talk, talk about association, and run on association-sovereignty in the referendum campaign.

Hot Debate

What an Alice-in-Wonderland world, when the left wing of the PQ passionately takes on the rest of the party on the question of whether the association should include a formal monetary union, or whether Quebec should just unilaterally align its future currency with the Canadian dollar. That's exactly what happened at the national council meeting at the beginning of December. Just wait till the May party convention. You will see some passionate debate on some obscure doctrine of association, while no one will ask whether English-speaking Canada would want association, and whether the formulas proposed have any chance of working in the real world.

That, not sincerity, is the real issue for sovereignty-association. In a platonic world of ideal forms, sovereignty-association can exist because Levesque really thinks it can exist. In the world of politics goodwill is not enough.

Lise Bissonnette, Roy's brilliant assistant, has expressed the difference better than anyone else. She thumbed through the 31-page party document outlining sovereignty-association which will be put before the May convention, and she marvelled at the naivete of it all.

"Drawn up behind the rose-colored glasses of magical thinking," she wrote, "it shows above all that, while the Quebec government has taken some lessons in realism since its accession to power, the party behind the government is still playing games of political fiction."

Miss Bissonnette put her finger on the two fundamental fallacies of the document. It assumes that a sovereign Quebec could associate itself as one of two equals with English-speaking Canada, instead of being one of 11 governments. Then it assumes that, because the Ontario manufacturing industry has an economic interest in maintaining its markets in Quebec, the rest of the country will accept whatever association Quebec proposes.

Child's Game

"It literally presents English Canada as a reasonable mummy that is also generous and chivalrous," she said.

I'm tempted to indulge in an irony and say that Roy is slandering Levesque by calling him sincere about sovereignty-association. But let's just say that sovereignty-association will be looked at on its merits the day premier and party put aside magical thinking. So far, it's a child's game, like Monopoly, Diplomacy or Risk.

Red Carpet Treatment

LONDON — Now that the New Year and Christmas guests have departed, those of us who were on the receiving end have time to sit back, take stock and resolve to do something more constructive than never letting any of them through the door ever again.

There is such a thing as a code for house guests, and this is it:

1. You must never let your hostess feel lonely or neglected, or that she is simply there to pile food into you as she pants back and forth from the kitchen. Follow her around, therefore, wherever she goes; if she is frantically engaged in stirring the lumps out of a sauce, stand one metre away and chat unconcernedly, calming her with some such phrase as "what are you trying to make now?"

2. Show willingness to do your share of the household tasks. Insist on setting the table (she will show you where the knives, salt, pepper, napkins, glasses are). Don't be afraid to take on boring jobs like peeling potatoes — she is sure to have a patent potato peeler somewhere.

3. It may be that while you're in town — or in that neck of the backwoods — you have other visits to make or places to see. You must not let your hostess feel you are using her house as a hotel, however. Say "I'm just popping out for a while," so that she will feel you may be back any time. There is something so final about "I'll be gone all day" even if, in that case, she might get a bit of bed-rest herself.

4. A good guest will always turn up with a gift — and not your boring old glace fruit casket or tin of ham, either. Try to arrive with some exciting, fresh-cooked delicacy that must be eaten immediately; it will bring a new and surprising element into your hostess' planned meal schedule.

5. It's always a help for a busy mother to have her children amused; the good guest will show ready willingness to play Scrabble, Rummy, Monopoly or Old Maid. The hostess will find that the time spent in rounding up the children, pointing a gun to their heads and finally bidding them to play is amply rewarded by knowing the guest is pinned down on the living room sofa for at least an hour.

6. As far as your own children are concerned, a hostess will appreciate that they cannot always be made to conform to the habits of her own. If your child gets weepy and tiresome at being made to eat at a sensible hour and go to bed the same time the others do, just tactfully insist that they sit up until their normal bedtime. Few hostesses will be able to think of a way of sending your child to bed if you don't.

7. Since on visits the only time a hostess really gets to sit down and relax is over a nice cup of tea or coffee, you'll be doing her a favor if you make it clear that you like to have a cup quite often; she will, in any event, have put off most of her other commitments for the duration of your stay.

Follow these seven rules and you may be sure the real purpose of your visit has been achieved: to make your hosts look with a delighted and kindly eye at what their own home and family can be like when they're just on their own.

A poor man once asked the Rabbi what could he do, he was so crowded in the one room with his wife and three children? The Rabbi suggested he buy a dog. He came back a few days later, saying it was worse than ever: the dog bit the baby, left hairs all over the cooking . . .

Buy hens, said the Rabbi. The man came back even more distraught. The dog chased the hens, the hens roosted on the dripping laundry, the baby howled . . .

Buy a goat, said the Rabbi. This time the man was back in 24 hours, great bags of sleeplessness under his eyes: the goat butted the dog, the dog barked, the hens flew to the ceiling and made messes, there were feathers everywhere . . .

Ah! said the Rabbi. Now get rid of the goat. Get rid of the dog. Get rid of the hens. And come and see me tomorrow. When the man came back, he said "It's marvellous! Just me and my wife and the children, with the whole room to ourselves!" Precisely.

OUR "BEST BUY" STEREO

Our competitor says he'll eat any set that sounds better than his. We hope he's hungry! First of all, we chose Kenwood's 3090 receiver, so you can have concert hall levels, with real life clarity. We've matched it with Challenger 12B speakers, with 12" woofer and a 3-way system. . . dome tweeter too. Sounds superb. Then, we added a Sanyo belt-drive turntable (for minimum rumble) with a Servo-controlled motor (for minimum wow and flutter) and automatic return and shut-off (for maximum convenience). And finally, we discarded the original cartridge (it's not bad, but you deserve better) and added a Goldring 820 Super E cartridge from England. Give it a listen . . . we think you'll agree it's the best! Pass the salt.

Canada Ducks on Steel?

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A Pennsylvania legislator says Canada's unwillingness to lower a tariff on imported steel pipes "sidesteps" an agreement that gave U.S. steel firms a fair chance in bidding for the $10 billion Canadian natural gas pipeline.

Congressman Joseph Gaydos says the tariff problem and Canadian abuse of the trigger price mechanism has prompted him to call for an investigation of the "worsening situation" in U.S.-Canada steel trade when the Congressional Steel Caucus reconvenes later this month.

Gaydos, who represents a Pittsburgh-area district heavily dependent on steelmaking, said he wants to examine Canada's apparent unwillingness to allow U.S. steel producers into the Canadian market.

"It appears Canada may be playing the game once practised by Japan — barring American steel from home markets while increasing their shipments here," Gaydos said.

Gaydos pointed to Canada's reluctance to let U.S. pipe manufacturers bid for $10 billion worth of contracts for construction of a new natural gas pipeline in Canada. The contracts were let to STELCO and IPSCO construction companies, both Canadian firms.

The pipeline will run from the oil-rich North Slope of Alaska through the Yukon to Alberta where it connects with existing facilities that will carry thegas to the United States.

American firms won the right to bid on the project under an agreement worked out by the U.S. and Canadian officials, but Gaydos said U.S. steelmakers still face the imposing tariff on imported large-diameter pipe.

The congressman noted Canada had refused to waive its 15 per cent tariff, or reduce it to match the U.S. tariff of 2 per cent.

He said the tariff rate makes it almost impossible for American firms to successfully compete for contracts on the 2,100-mile pipeline.

"If that doesn't technically violate the agreement, it certainly sidesteps it," Gaydos said.

Gaydos said the tariff request was reasonable since "American sources will provide an estimated 75 per cent of the financial backing for the project and American consumers will be the principal source of revenue for repayment of those loans."

BC Tel Plans 30¢ Dividend

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Telephone Co. announced Wednesday a quarterly dividend of 30 cents an ordinary share, payable April 1, 1979, to shareholders of record March 9, 1979.

It's an increase of three cents a share from the previous quarterly dividend of 27 cents, paid Jan. 1, and followed a recommendation announced earlier by Gordon MacFarlane, company chairman and chief executive officer.

MacFarlane said last month that the company anticipated 1979 earnings would be in the area of $1.92 an ordinary share. He said he believes this level of earnings, which works out to about 13 per cent on equity, will be acceptable to the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission, which regulates the company.

MacFarlane also said he took the unusual step of announcing the 1979 earnings projection to help investors understand clearly the implications of the CRTC decision on B.C. Tel's plan for compliance in 1978 with anti-inflation guidelines in effect to Dec. 31.

The CRTC, which administers the guidelines where B.C. Tel is concerned, has accepted with modification the company's proposal to have certain of the 1978 revenues carried forward into 1979 as earned revenues.

Concerned by Cartoon Verdict

Victoria Labor Council delegates voted Wednesday night to express concern to the provincial government about this week's ruling from the B.C. Supreme Court on a Times cartoon.

Ernie Knott of the International Woodworkers of America, who made the motion asking for such action, said the court's decision could curtail the freedom of the press.

The motion was in response to Mr. Justice F. Craig Munroe's decision in favor of Municipal Affairs Minister Bill Vander Zalm in his libel suit against the Times, cartoonist Bob Bierman, former Times publisher Stuart Underhill and editor Barbara McLintock.

Knott said concern should be expressed over the decision because it comes at a time when there is a definite move to the right in the country.

He said most labor council delegates have been involved in the political scene in one way or another and no doubt feel that "any man who can't stand the flak in office, has no business in political office."

Not all delegates voted in favor of the motion. One suggested it is not right for the labor body to attack a judicial decision.

The ruling, meanwhile, has left other Canadian cartoonists anything but laughing, and has raised the eyebrows of some politicians.

"It is absolutely necessary that there be an appeal," said The Montreal Gazette's cartoonist Terry Mosher, known as Aislin.

"Once a figure is elected, anything he may say is fair game for cartoonists. A cartoonist is not necessarily meant to criticize, but to point out the Achilles heel of a situation."

Aislin said the judgment would not influence his cartoons, although it might make editors leery of publishing them.

The judgment will make the cartoonists job that much more difficult, said John Collins, the paper's second cartoonist. It would encourage other politicians to resort to legal action for cartoons they dislike.

"I'm disappointed, upset and concerned," said Yardley Jones, who draws for the strike-bound Montreal Star and is syndicated in about 50 other newspapers.

"I hope an appeal will reverse the judgment or every two-bit, Johny politician will take advantage of it."

Besides taking legal action, cartoonists across the country should vent their feelings by drawing a cartoon of Bill Vander Zalm, suggested La Presse cartoonist Jean-Pierre Girerd.

"Now there's a weapon those silly sons-of-bitches have overlooked," roared feisty Duncan Macpherson of the Toronto Star.

Macpherson agreed that a legal appeal is the ultimate weapon.

"Since King George the III, British law has set precedents for criticism of public figures. Everyone is going crazy. This judgment will mean censorship."

Blaine of the Hamilton Spectator described the judgment as "a ridiculous step back to the Neanderthal era.

"Cartoonists may sometimes deserve a rap on the knuckles for bad taste, but the cartoon in question wasn't even that bad."

Roy Peterson of the strike-bound Vancouver Sun complained that cartoonists may as well move their drawing boards into the witness box.

Labor Council Gives Shields Second Term

John Shields was elected to his second term as president of the Victoria Labor Council Wednesday night, and Larry Ryan was acclaimed secretary-treasurer for the 12th consecutive year.

Shields, a social worker and member of the B.C. Government Employees Union (BCGEU), defeated Dick Belfit of the Telecommunications Workers Union.

Jack Groves of the International Woodworkers of America (IWA) and John Schibli, secretary-treasurer of the Vancouver Island Building and Construction Trades Council, were unopposed in their bids for first vice-president and second vice-president respectively.

Al. McMurray, an organizer with the building trades council, was elected sergeant-at-arms. He was unopposed.

Elected to the executive board were Don Burns and Donna Mottershead of the BCGEU; Dave Higgins of the boilermakers' union; Ernie Knott of the IWA and Bill Weavers of the carpenters' union.

Parking Pledge Made

The wooded acreage Camosun College plans to turn into a parking area should be preserved as a wildlife habitat, a residents' group spokesman has told the college.

Phillip Wellman and residents opposed to a 156-car parking lot on 25 acres behind the Lansdowne campus met Camosun principal Lloyd Morin this week to discuss the problem.

Both sides left the meeting confident a solution can be reached, although the residents had some harsh words about Camosun.

Wellman said the college over the years has created a number of headaches for residents including parking problems, traffic hazards and inadequate campus maintenance.

Decrepit buildings and huts at the rear of the campus are an eyesore, Wellman said.

The residents are strongly opposed to expanding the parking area into the woods behind the campus.

Known locally as the as Hudson's Bay Woods, the land was donated to the University of Victoria by the company.

Trolling Suit Dropped

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three B.C. troll fishermen who last spring filed a lawsuit against federal Fisheries Minister Romeo LeBlanc and an officer of his department now have dropped the suit.

The fishermen were seeking a ruling that the closure of troll-salmon fishing off the west coast of Vancouver Island was illegal.

The fisheries department ordered the closure because of depleted stocks of sockeye salmon. That action led to protests by fishermen in the Ucluelet area.

John Sanderson, one of the three fishermen, said the suit was dropped because the issue became academic. He said west coast fishermen face a bigger problem in fighting the Pacific Salmon Commission's proposal to limit this year's troll-salmon season to 10 days.

The commission will meet Feb. 20 to rule on the proposals.

1978 Living Cost up 9% Led by 15% Rise in Food

During December, one of the smallest increases in recent months was recorded.

Compared with the same month one year ago, prices at the end of December were 8.4 per-cent higher. This was a considerably better performance than the November-to-November cost-of-living increase which was 8.8 per cent, or the July increase — the year's worst — of 9.8 per cent.

The annual inflation rate is obtained by averaging the 12 monthly figures which varied between 8.4 per cent and 9.8 per cent.

The nine-per-cent average was substantially higher than the seven-per-cent inflation rate predicted by Finance Minister Jean Chretien in his spring budget.

When asked for his inflation forecast at the time of his November budget, Chretien would not predict the year-end cost-of-living increase. However, private forecasters and government critics had been predicting a nine-per-cent inflation rate for 1978 for several months.

Commenting on the latest cost-of-living figures, Progressive Conservative consumer affairs critic James McGrath (St. John's East), said the slight improvement in the December statistics was welcome, but the annual rate of price increase remains disturbing.

McGrath was especially concerned about food prices.

"An immediate priority of the government must be the introduction of its long-delayed food policy," he said in a news release.

Speaking for the New Democratic Party, Lorne Nystrom (Yorkton-Melville), said the most discouraging aspect of the latest price figures is the amount by which price increases have shot ahead of wage gains.

"The average worker is making less in real money than he was a year ago," Nystrom told reporters.

He predicted the country's price performance will deteriorate in January when the latest increases in interest rates, bread prices and mortgages rates work their way into the cost of living.

Nystrom said double-digit inflation in the months ahead is a possibility.

The NDP is urging the government to revoke its latest bank-rate increase, rescind planned oil price increases and restore its grain subsidy to keep bread prices down, he said.

Chretien has refused to forecast what will happen to price levels in 1979, beyond saying that prices of domestically produced goods will increase by 6.5 per cent.

Chretien's prediction deliberately excludes imports, which are a particularly volatile item in consumer spending. Imported foods — most of which cannot be produced domestically — were one of the main trouble spots in last year's price performance.

Canada is at an added disadvantage in foreign markets at this time with its devalued currency.

The minister is also ignoring the fact that the government promised to reduce the inflation rate to four per cent at the end of its wage-price-control program. The controls expired Dec. 31.

— Food, up 15.5 per cent for the year.

— Housing, up 7.5 per cent for the year.

—Clothing, up 3.8 per cent for the year.

— Transportation, up 5.8 per cent for the year.

Tighter Smoke Curbs Urged

A coroner's jury Wednesday night recommended tougher enforcement of smoking regulations at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

The jury said all hospital staff should be made aware of the regulations and smoking materials should be strictly controlled for patients incapable of smoking safely on their own.

The recommendations were made at the conclusion of an inquest into the Dec. 31 death of Edward Jones, 89, from burns received when he inadvertently set fire to his bathrobe while smoking.

Hospital executive director Dr. Archie Pickles said today he agrees with the recommendations.

"Really, it's simply a matter of intensifying policies that already exist," he said.

He said every employee is supposed to attend at least once a year a lecture on fire prevention and safety.

"We may have to look at this more closely to be sure the requirement is being met," he said.

Pickles said following the Jones incident he received a letter from the fire chief congratulating the staff for its handling of the fire. The chief said the staff's quick attention prevented a major blaze.

The jury found that Jones set fire to his bathrobe, blanket and medical corset by a match or cigarette on Dec. 30. He died the next day.

Evidence showed that while Jones received extensive burns to his thigh, his pyjama bottoms were not burnt, a fact which was not dealt with by the jury.

The Spellmakers: Verbal Magic

By LORRAINE LOCHERTY
Times Staff

It's easy when you know verbal magic, says author, poet and University of Victoria creative writing professor Robin Skelton.

He swears his book Spellcraft, a compilation of invocations, incantations and other spells invented by various cultures reaching back to 1000 B.C., can teach people how to do good deeds for their fellow humans.

Since spells are basically transmissions of telepathic messages, the most important requirements for spellmaking are psychic energy, concentration and faith.

And magic is the belief that words and actions can affect physical reality in a manner that can't be explained by science.

The art is open to all kinds of interpretation and improvisation.

The simplest spells are invocations and incantations.

During an invocation the spellmaker summons what he or she believes to be the ultimate source of power.

An incantation is a spell intensifying existing emotions. It is meant to put the spellmaker or the subject into a receptive frame of mind.

The most difficult spells are bidding spells, which are used to command something to happen.

Bidding spells are used to summon friends or lovers. They can also be used to send strangers or enemies away or even change the weather.

They are hard because the spellmaker doesn't have the co-operation of the subject and must summon extreme amounts of energy.

A curse is the most dangerous spell because it requires the release of dark and destructive forces within the spellmaker.

Once unleashed, these forces are hard to control and often return as negative energy to plague the sender.

Bad luck wished on others will usually return tenfold, Skelton cautions.

His book also includes healing, blessing and love spells. Step-by-step instructions on spellmaking are included.

A writer with more than 60 books in every genre to his credit, Skelton taught for 12 "hideous" years at the University of Manchester before he moved to Canada in 1963 and accepted a job teaching English at UVic.

In 1966 he helped plan UVic's prestigious literary magazine The Malahat Review and has been its editor since the beginning.

With five projects going at one time and three completed but unpublished books sitting at home, Skelton says a one-track mind is the reason he's prolific.

"I think it's due to the fact I'm a slob. I don't dig gardens, or sail boats — I just write."

Spells are the earliest kind of poetry, explains Skelton, who started collecting verbal magic 20 years ago but only began using his knowlege recently.

The first spell Skelton created was to heal a four year-old friend who had fallen down some stairs and was unconscious.

Thanks to the spell, the child had only three bruises when she awakened, he said.

He brushed the incident off as coincidence and continued to practise verbal magic.

"One day I realized I had an 80 per cent success rate. The coincidence theory was no longer valid."

Verbal magic is not witchcraft, Skelton quickly points out. Witchcraft is a religion, spellcraft is not.

Witches — Victoria has many, he says — worship a goddess called various names by different covens.

This writer says a curse is the most dangerous spell because it requires the release of dark and destructive forces within the spellmaker . . . and once unleashed are hard to control, often returning as negative energy to plague the sender

The name of the goddess isn't important. She symbolizes the energy of the natural universe — energy witches capture through incantations to make postive things happen.

The techniques can't be used for personal gain. They just don't work if greed is the motivation, Skelton said.

Verbal magic also harnesses the power of natural harmony, but it's like prayer without worship of a deity.

The secret is to identify something in the unconscious mind that is the source of individual energy and to bring it to the surface.

Citing Jungian psychology, Skelton said the deep mind of the collective unconscious is full of drives and forces spinning around — a personal energy that keeps us going.

For more intense magic, the practitioner must go into a trance, according to Skelton.

Grouse Nest Property To Mainland Company

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

A Vancouver developer is taking over the multi-million dollar Grouse Nest Lodge property on Sooke Basin.

Foreclosure proceedings initiated several months ago by Laurel Properties Ltd. are expected to be completed within three weeks giving the company possession of the 572-acre waterfront site.

Company treasurer Harold Budd told the Times from Vancouver the action was started after Grouse Nest defaulted on loans advanced three years ago.

Budd would not elaborate but Grouse Nest president Hasaam Kamil said in an advertisement in today's newspapers that Laurel Properties held a first mortgage for a defaulted indebtedness of about $2.5 million.

Kamil declined to comment this morning. His ad says the foreclosure results from his inability to arrange interim financing for further development.

Budd said Laurel Properties has not decided what it will do with the property which has about 10,000 feet of waterfront and a complex of buildings including a main lodge, several A-frame cottages, floats, and its own water supply and stand-by electrical generating station.

Kamil, in his announcement, said the property has been appraised at more than $5 million, but Budd felt that figure is high.

Grouse Nest Ltd., which gives its head office as Zurich, Switzerland, purchased the site 15 years ago. Kamil brought artisans and tradesmen from Europe to convert the lodge into a plush resort with the thought of attracting wealthy European and American tourists and sports fishermen.

A posh restaurant, on which he had spent more than $100,000 in furnishings, only operated two years, closing in 1966.

When Kamil bought the lodge he also acquired the land that is now East Sooke Park. Most of that property was turned over to the Capital Region but Kamil retained a small parcel facing Sooke Basin on which he planned a subdivision. Complications arose, however, and the subdivision property fell into the hands of Block Bros.

Kamil also owns more than 2,000 acres in the Highlands including most of the waterfront on Finlayson Arm.

ARCING ZAPS HYDRO POWER

The failure of a transmission cable from the Lower Mainland plunged parts of Greater Victoria and other southern Vancouver Island communities into darkness Wednesday evening.

The outage occurred at 5:07 and full service was restored by 7:30 p.m. Areas of Esquimalt and Saanich were in darkness but apart from flickering lights, Victoria and Oak Bay escaped.

B.C. Hydro said today the difficulty was caused by arcing — a power leakage — in the system that brings direct current by submarine cable to the terminal at Duncan, where it is converted to alternating current for distribution.

Power was out at Nanaimo, Port Alberni, Duncan, Lake Cowichan and other points south of Nanaimo.

Crash Victim Still In Coma

Three youths injured in a fiery single-car accident on Claremont Avenue Saturday night remain in critical condition — one in a coma — in Victoria General Hospital.

Jack Donald Swartzenberger, 18, of 769 Birch, and Leith Cresswell Hulbert, 18, of 911 Cloverdale, are in the burns unit.

Lawrence Edward Husiman, 15, of 564 Obed, was transferred earlier in the week to intensive care.

He has not regained consciousness but the other two have.

Two others, Spencer Glen Larson, 18, of 2370 Weiler, and Dale Robert Storey, 15, of 911 Cloverdale, died in the crash.

Transit Union Fears Labor Rally Violence

The Amalgamated Transit Union is concerned that protest rallies planned by B.C.'s labor movement could become violent, the Victoria Labor Council was told Wednesday night.

ATU delegate Gentry Hudson said his union feels instead of spending money on the rallies, called to protest recent labor legislation, the B.C. Federation of Labor should give the money to the NDP.

If elected the party could then respond "with appropriate remedial legislation," he said.

The first of nine protest rallies will be held Tuesday in Nelson. There wil be one in Victoria on the opening day of the spring session of the legislature, likely towards the end of February.

The labor federation is spending $85,000 on the rallies and an advertising campaign to combat what it sees as a concerted attack by the B.C. government on public sector unions.

Hudson said rallies on the scale planned could be easily infiltrated and turned violent. This, he added, would just feed into the government's apparent battle plan of making labor appear irresponsible and made up of "bomb-throwing pyromaniacs."

He said in an interview the ATU is also opposed to the rallies because the public could question how the labor movement can afford to spend that much money while at the same time claiming its members are "downtrodden and underpaid."

Norm Richards, president of the B.C. Government Employees Union, drew applause from the delegates when he said organizers have no intention of letting the rallies get out of control.

"They're going to be peaceful rallies, well-controlled rallies and we're going to get our point across," he said.

Sprint Takeoff Leaves Running Shoe Clues

Colwood RCMP are looking for a thief who likes to travel and has a thing about arriving on time.

That's the profile officers have drawn after the theft overnight of 25 wristwatches and two blue leatherette suitcases from Fields department store in Colwood Plaza, 1905 Sooke Road.

An officer on patrol at 5 a.m. spotted a pair of new running shoes lying on the ground near a rear door, and then found the door was unlocked.

Taxes Owed By Williams

Former NDP cabinet minister Bob Williams is among the individuals and companies being sued by Victoria for overdue taxes.

City comptroller Mason Sheldrick today told city council's finance committee a total of $799,690 in taxes is in arrears.

On Jan. 1, however, the overdue total stood at $1.2 million — $328,400 has been collected since then largely because the city began issuing writs a few weeks ago.

Those on the overdue list made public all owe more than $3,000.

The city's policy is to add late penalties to overdue taxes and if that doesn't work writs are issued.

As a last resort the city can seize properties and sell them to recover its money.

Eighteen individuals and companies were on the list along with Williams, owing from just over $3,000 to a high of $63,000.

Dundurn Developments Ltd. has the biggest overdue bill, owing the $63,000 for the Wismer Building in the 1100-block Fort.

Others whose taxes are in arrears include Victoria businessman Michael C. Williams (who owes more than $40,000 on seven properties), the Coachman Inn on Gorge Road, Douglas Hotel and Town and Country Realty Ltd.

Fort Victoria Properties Ltd. owed $97,861 in December but has since paid all but $512.

Absentee Owner Blamed for Empress

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

The neglected condition of the Empress hotel is an example of the dangers of absentee ownership, Deregulation Minister Sam Bawlf said Wednesday.

In a speech to the Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce, Bawlf, chairman of the Capital Commission, was explaining why Premier Bill Bennett opposed the sale of MacMillan Bloedel to the Montreal-based CP Investments.

(CP Investments has announced it has withdrawn its bid.)

Neglect of The Empress by CP Rail is one of the reasons the city is being forced to provide convention facilities, which should have been constructed in the hotel, Bawlf said.

If it hadn't been for a dedicated campaign by Empress manager Ted Balderson "this building (Empress) would be a disaster," he said.

"This building has not had nearly enough capital investment spent on it in decades."

While the chamber members applauded his remarks on the state of the Empress, they were cooler toward provincial involvement in takeover bids for MacMillan Bloedel.

In a poll of the 235 business people present, only 26 per cent felt the provincial government should step in to prevent out-of-province takeovers of B.C. companies. Sixty-three per cent were opposed and 11 per cent undecided.

One Victoria businessman, explaining why he thought Bennett should have stayed out of the battle, commented:

"If we stop takeovers in this province, other provinces would be justified in preventing takeovers of their companies by B.C. firms. What ever happened to the private enterprise system?"

Meanwhile, most of Bawlf's speech was a political defence of the government's record in the Victoria community.

He said he knew some people were hoping he would "open his bag of goodies" at the meeting but added he had no new projects to unveil.

He quickly dashed hopes for an announcement on a convention centre, saying there is little more the government could do and the next step is up to the Victoria business community.

"I'm not here to say it (the convention centre) will be imposed on the community. I will do all in my power to assist but the incentive has to come from the business sector."

The building, proposed for the Reid site on the waterfront adjacent to Bastion Square, would be large enough to hold 1,500 delegates and would attract 52,000 delegates in its first year.

It would bring in $7.5 million in that first year but still would operate at a loss, Bawlf said.

Eventually, it would create 1,000 jobs.

But a non-profit bureau consisting of business people and local government representatives must be established first to work out a financing plan and decide how to deal with operating costs, he said.

In other chamber business, president Mel Cooper announced a tourist blitz of Portland in mid-February.

In the 25-member delegation will be Tourism Minister Elwood Veitch, Mayor Mike Young, Cooper and Victoria business people.

They will meet the governor of Oregon and several Portland officials and hand out daffodils and Victoria brochures.

Cooper introduced the idea of a chamber poll at the monthly meeting and it showed the surprisingly-strong opposition to Bennett's intervention in the Mac-Blo controversy.

On the question of whether an air-bus service at Pat Bay airport would be a reasonable alternative to the present seaplane service, 48 per cent said no, 36 per cent said yes and 16 per cent were undecided.

Asked if they approved the gift of five shares of the B.C. Resources Investment Corporation to all B.C. citizens, 74 per cent said yes, 21 per cent said no and five per cent were undecided.

Asked if they would buy more BCRIC shares if they were available at reasonable cost, 62 per cent said yes, 20 per cent said no and 18 per cent were undecided.

CHINA PLANS BID FOR OLYMPIC SPOT

TOKYO (AP) — China hopes to join the International Olympic Committee this year to compete in the 1980 Moscow Olympics and was willing to join various international sports federations, the Japanese newspaper Ashi reported today from Peking.

Asahi said the Chinese hope was disclosed by Kyuhei Muraoka, director of the Japan-China Cultural Exchange Association, who was visiting the Chinese capital to discuss this year's Japan-China sports exchange.

Asahi said China already has joined 11 international sports federations and is ready to return to or apply to join 11 others including swimming, soccer, cycling, shooting and archery, in preparation to compete in the Moscow Olympics.

Tan Chen-lin, vice chairman of the Chinese National People's Congress, told a Japanese religious organization delegation Monday that China is ready to participate in the Moscow Olympics if it is recognized by the IOC.

Nationalist China in Taiwan is recognized by the IOC. Peking is not a member but has indicated it would consider joining if Taiwan was excluded.

Patience The Key To Super Bowl Final

It's Super Bowl time and shades of Joe Namath. Now another Super Mouth has emerged. Linebacker Ken "Hollywood" Henderson of the Dallas Cowboys has suggested that he, like Superman, can pierce Pittsburgh's steel curtain; and other Cowboys have said the Pittsburgh receivers will turn timid once they start hearing footsteps.

In other words, the psych is on and at work. The Steelers responded, either by design or otherwise, and shades of '69.

And it all goes back to Namath. Most everyone scoffed when Namath, then a brash young quarterback, calmly announced before the 1969 Super Bowl that the upstart Jets would triumph over the feared Baltimore Colts. Matter of fact he guaranteed it. He said youth would prevail over age. The Colts time had come. The quarterbacking establishment of Johnny Unitas and Earl Morral wasn't much compared to what he would do the Colt defence, he suggested, while enjoying the fun and fanfare that went with Super Bowl week.

So Namath was just spouting off to relieve the tension. Let him have his pre-game kicks. He would soon get his come-uppance, the experts suggested. The week wore on and came game time. The Colts were overwhelming favorites and Namath would eat his words or be on his backside. Not either. Namath was right. The Jets were best. His guarantee had stood up. His passing had disrupted the Colts more than they said his words did.

So it was a one-shot deal. It wouldn't happen again. But now there is another of the same kind, nobody's really knocking Henderson or anyone else for what they say. The coaches aren't about to tell their players how to behave now they have come this far. They have the game plan to think about.

But does it really matter what Henderson says, or Dallas safety Cliff Harris who commented: "We're going to have to knock Bradshaw out early. I'll be looking to hit him, not to hurt him, but that doesn't mean he might not get hurt?"

Harris also called Swann "Tad Timid". Which translates to "the guy beside you will be me."

Tough words, but they got the job done. The Cowboys had gotten in the first licks and maybe had won round one. The Steelers were quickly on the defensive. They had to reply, sneering in their own belief that they were superior.

But give 'em marks they played it cool. Mean Joe Greene was simply trying to be diplomatic when he answered "we don't say we're best; we just do what we have to." And linebacker Jack Lambert, who had a go-around with Harris once before, replied "What's past is past, there's no friction on my part." But inside they were probably seething.

And there that matter rests — until the next quote.

As to which is the best team, in a recent poll 17 of the 23 National Football League coaches polled said they favored Pittsburgh. The odds on the Steelers also reflect the public thinking with Reno sources quoting Pittsburgh by three and the Las Vegas books giving the Steelers a four-point edge.

For Pittsburgh, it will be the scrambling and passing of quarterback Terrry Bradshaw as opposed to the relatively, calm, stereotyped approach of his opposite number Roger Staubach. Bradshaw, it seems, has more licence in directing the Pittsburgh attack than Staubach has with Dallas as coach Tom Landry calls all the Cowboys' plays. And Bradshaw is hot and playing well.

But Staubach is a master technician, completed more passes during the season than did Bradshaw and their percentages were comparable.

The running power for the Steelers comes from Franco Harris. As he goes, so likely will go the Steelers. He is probably their most powerful force.

And yet the Cowboys' rookie sensation Tony Dorsett ran for more yardage than did Harris during the year and had a better per-carry average as well.

But there it is. It's your pick.

Pittsburgh, you say. No way.

Henderson gave Dallas the edge early and they have a little more of that patient approach.

And who knows — maybe Henderson will make the big interception that will turn it around.

The Cowboys by four.

Phil Got His 800th In Socks Inside Out

Times News Services

He played with his socks inside out and got his 800th assist. For Phil Esposito of New York Rangers, it was a good omen.

"I guess I've got to keep my socks inside out for every game," Esposito said. Superstitions and milestones grow on him.

He has his own collection of lucky charms on a shelf in his dressing cubicle. "It was my mistake," Esposito explained about the white socks.

Esposito is having one of his best seasons with the Rangers despite recurrent rumors that he will be traded.

On Wednesday night, the Rangers defeated New York Islanders 5-3 at Madison Square Garden and Esposito's fine performance contributed to the first Rangers' victory over the Islanders this season. It was only the sixth loss for the Long Islander leaders of the Patrick Division who, with 67, have the most points in the National Hockey League—one more than Montreal Canadiens.

Esposito's 800th assist came on a power-play goal by defenceman Ron Greschner late in the first period, tying the score 1-1.

"You know, I never knew it was 800," Esposito said. "Wow, 800 assists, 650 goals—I'm coming close to 1,500 points."

The sellout crowd of nearly 18,000—counting standing room—gave Esposito an ovation. And he relished every moment.

"That was something. It made me feel really welcome."

Esposito is the fifth player in NHL history to reach the 800-assist plateau. He added his 801st assist on the third Rangers goal in the second period while each side was a man short.

The all-time leader is Howe, who, in 25 seasons with Detroit Red Wings, scored 786 regular-season goals and 1,023 assists for 1,809 points before retiring.

Esposito is second in all-time NHL scoring with 657 goals and 801 assists for 1,458 points in 16 seasons.

The other active player in the select circle, Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks, has 529 goals and 913 assists for 1,442 points in 20 seasons.

Elsewhere, Montreal Canadiens whipped Los Angeles Kings 7-3, Detroit Red Wings dumped Pittsburgh Penguins 4-1 and Chicago Black Hawks edged Colorado Rockies 2-1.

"They deserved to win," said coach Al Arbour, whose Islanders lost for only the second time in 18 games and the sixth time in 44 games over all. "They outhit us, they outworked us, they outskated us and we were very dumb with the puck.

WHL Studies Realignment

By ERNIE FEDORUK
Times Staff

Spokane, often mentioned in recent years, is being suggested again and may be the key to new-look Western Hockey League.

League governors conclude a two-day, mid-season meeting in Vancouver today. The session has been described as "ostensibly routine house-cleaning" but the Times has learned that realignment of the existing three-division, 12-team league was discussed prominently.

A key to realignment would be Spokane. A franchise in the Washington state city would lead to the formation of a "Coastal Division" along with Victoria Cougars, Seattle Breakers, New Westminster Bruins and Portland Winter Hawks.

In addition, Billings (now in the Central Division) or possibly one or two of the four Alberta teams would be asked to play in the Coastal Division. All remaining teams would form a "Prairie Division."

Proponents of realignment feel divisional balance would not be necessary if Spokane entered. The Coast Division could operate with as few as five teams and the remaining seven or eight teams would play in the Prairie Division.

The key, as mentioned, would have to be Spokane. A former member of the Western International (Senior) League, Spokane presently has an entry in the Pacific League. But the minor pro league, with other teams in Phoenix, San Diego, Tucson and Los Angeles, already has lost San Fracisco this season and is reported on shaky ground.

The more-established, professional Central League is interested in adding Phoenix, San Diego and Tucson, leaving Spokane out in the cold.

That would open the door for WHL expansion into Spokane.

But while Spokane would be welcome, the two-division setup may be more difficult to achieve without Seattle. The Breakers, who Wednesday named former Seattle Totem defenceman Don Ward to succeed Les Calder as manager and coach, have been suffering at the gate. The plight of Seattle and other financially-troubled teams also was discussed prominently.

A league spokesman said in Vancouver that owners and governors would not comment on the meetings until a press conference later today.

He admitted realignment of the three divisions was under discussion.

Victoria manager-coach Jack Shupe is known to favor realignment.

"Except for Brandon (the only Manitoba entry), the league, as it looks now, is ideally set up for two divisions," he said before leaving for the Vancouver session.

The change in Seattle was not surprising. The Breakers are in last place in the Western Division. Last season the Breakers missed the playoffs by one point but an exciting race did not boost attendance to any great degree.

Ward, 43, will be assisted by John MacDonald, also 43. Both have been active in youth coaching in the Seattle area for many years.

Seattle plays the Bruins in New Westminster on Friday and will face the Cougars in Victoria's Memorial Arena the following night.

Meanwhile, in the only game played Wednesday, four players took care of Brandon scoring as the Wheat Kings skated to an 8-3 victory over Saskatoon Blades. Brian Propp, Ray Allison, Mike Perovich and Dave McDonald each scored twice for the Eastern Division-leading Wheat Kings, who held 2-0 and 4-1 period leads.

Super Bowl Action Hinges On Defence

MIAMI (AP) — Chuck Noll of Pittsburgh Steelers and Dallas Cowboys' Tom Landry are in agreement on at least one thing — the Super Bowl is anything but boring.

They're two coaches who appreciate the finer points of professional football, namely the art of keeping points off the scoreboard rather than piling them on.

That's why they'll be at the Orange Bowl on Sunday and 26 other National Football League coaches won't be.

To some, many of the previous NFL title games have been called, for lack of a better word, boring. Noll and Landry, both defensive assistant coaches before ascending to their present posts, shrug aside such suggestions.

"I saw the past couple of Super Bowls that we weren't in, then I read accounts of the game afterward and there was a difference between the game I read about and the game I saw," Noll said Wednesday.

"I guess I have an appreciation of defence and one of the things you're going to find in championship games are pretty good defences because you don't get here unless you have a good defence.

"There are some people who may not have the appreciation for defensive football that I have, people who think the best games are where you run up and down the field and score a lot of points . . . That's not outstanding football, in my view. An absence of defence doesn't necessarily make things more exciting. I think you have to be able to play a total game, day.

I think you have to be able to play a total game, and I think you have two total football teams here."

Landry, too, seemed almost to recoil at the suggestion that Super Bowls are boring.

"How can you say that?" he asked. "The Super Bowl is almost like constant sudden death. You can make mistakes during the season, lose games, then make up for it the next week."

Rains Halt Start Of Phoenix Golf

PHOENIX (AP) — A third night of rain made the Phoenix Country Club course unplayable and forced postponement today of the first round of the $250,000 Phoenix Open golf tournament.

The tournament schedule was pushed back one full day and it now is scheduled to end Monday.

Officials delayed the scheduled start for more than an hour today before deciding play was impossible.

Young Manager Is Also a Lady

NEW YORK (AP) — Alania Jones can impress people when she tells them she is the first female general manager in the American Soccer League.

She can really send them reeling when she throws in the fact she is also the youngest general manager in the league.

When owner Eric Henderson named Jones as general manager and public relations officer of the Columbus franchise, he gave professional soccer in the United States a bright new face and a mind full of ideas to promote the sport.

"I love soccer," says the 30-year-old California native who began her position with the as-yet unnamed franchise in October. "I worked hard to be where I am right now and my goal is to be successful and make soccer in Columbus successful. I have hopes to promote soccer in a variety of ways."

"I guess my first real task was the design of the uniforms," she said. "I chose the colors claret and sky blue. We'll be the only professional team in the country with those colors, although I have seen them on British teams."

Five Suspended in Ringer Operations

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio racing official says drastic measures must be taken to halt the mushrooming scheme of "saddling ringer horses."

The Ohio Racing Commission backed its words with action Wednesday, handing five horsemen state record 25-year suspensions each. The commission charged the horsemen with involvement in ringer operations at state thoroughbred tracks.

"We feel these cases are serious," said Henry Gurvis, chairman of the Ohio commission. "To stop them, we must take drastic steps."

An Associated Press survey shows ringer schemes have swept into at least seven states—New York, Ohio, Illinois, Kentucky, West Virginia, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

Those states have either sentenced, suspended or have horsemen under investigation in connection with ringers.

The scheme also is under an FBI probe, headed by the federal organization's Pittsburgh office. An FBI agent said allegations of sports bribery are being checked.

In most ringer cases, a higher-class horse is substituted for a lower class animal and run under the cheaper horse's name by falsifying foal registration certificates.

Ohio racing officials admit at least one ringer race was run at Thistledown in Cleveland and Beulah Park near Columbus in 1978. They say one ringer, Piperazine Pete for Stoned Crown, won twice at Beulah before he was uncovered.

The commission identified the horsemen suspended as:

Burley Clouston III, 20, of Shortsville, N.Y.; George Robert Bowers, 51, of Hudson, Fla.; William Combee, 40, of Lakeland, Fla.; Myles Neff, 34, of Hollywood, Fla.; and Charles Wonder, 50, Plainville, Ind.

Paul Fleming Jr., executive secretary of the Ohio commission, said the penalties were the most severe in the history of state horse racing.

The most celebrated ringer case involved Dr. Mark Gerard of Muttonville, N.Y., convicted of a misdemeanor in 1978 in connection with a horse switch at Belmont in New York, Gerard was sentenced to one year after his conviction.

In related cases, the Illinois racing board suspended Combee and Wonder 25 years apiece on Dec. 28, 1978, on what Illinois lawyer Jewel Klein said were ringer charges at Hawthorne Park.

In Kentucky, Keene Daingerfield, a senior state steward, said Mr. and Mrs. William Price, Wonder and his wife have been dealt with in connection with another ringer scheme at Ellis Park in 1978.

Daingerfield said Wonder, unlicenced in Kentucky, was "denied the privileges of Kentucky tracks indefinitely" and that his wife's owner's licence was suspended indefinitely in that state.

Wilkinson appealed and has been granted a hearing before the West Virginia commission Jan. 27 at Waterford Park, Watson said.

In Massachusetts, that state's police is conducting an investigation into ringer races at Suffolk Downs, the Great Barrington Fair and the Tri-County Fair at North Hampton.

Co-operation the Keynote In Indoor Tennis Picture

max low

Pretty soon — in a matter of a day or two, actually — Greater Victoria will boast a grand total of 13 indoor tennis courts.

That's quite a jump from a mere four covered courts a couple of months ago but never fear, say those in the know, things will all work out with co-operation.

And the "Hartley Clan" stranglehold over instruction at the three centres should help that come about.

"We've held meetings between the instructors at all three and have vowed to cooperate and not try to cut each other's throat," says veteran tennis instructor Gordon Hartley.

Recently retired (though he's still teaching part-time) from Camosun College, Gordon has been named chief instructor at Saanich Municipality's new indoor tennis facility on Cedar Hill Road.

There are four courts there, another four at Oak Bay Municipality's Tennis Place and the Racquet Club of Victoria hopes to have its five indoor courts open for play this weekend.

"Of course, the fact that my son Russ is the pro at the Racquet Club and Roger Skillings at Oak Bay, to whom I taught tennis when he was a little boy in 1948 and 1949, makes it a very congenial situation," Gordon Hartley admits with a grin.

During Oak Bay's Christmas tournament, Skillings ran out of space and Saanich stepped in to make its courts available so the event could be completed on time.

"And that," says Saanich facilities co-ordinator Al Colombo, "is the only way to go.

"This must be a co-operative venture," he explains. "For each of these facilities to go its own way would be a disaster. But I think everybody will do well if we work together."

Certainly the new Saanich bubble, boasting excellent lighting and acoustics and four porous concrete courts with the slowest surface in the city, has been doing well since it opened a few weeks ago, realizing better than 78 per cent use.

You can book the Saanich courts up to 24 hours ahead and for either one or two-hour sessions by phoning 595-7121 and, like Oak Bay, the cost is $6 an hour per court except between 7 and 9 a.m. and from 11 p.m. to midnight when the charge drops to $4. There are showers and change rooms in the adjacent recreation centre which houses an auditorium, a dance studio, various meeting rooms and a pottery studio.

The 30-year-old Colombo, who was Kelowna parks and recreation supervisor for four years before coming here and describes himself as "an average to less-than-average tennis player," handles the organization side of Saanich's new tennis centre.

Hartley will be responsible for the quality of the instruction offered on the covered courts.

"The whole emphasis will be on participation and instruction based on three levels — beginners, intermediate and advanced — and I'm very excited about the quality of the instruction we're going to be able to offer," Hartley says.

Of course, he'll have some help from four assistant instructors — Sandra Moss (current city champion), Anne Graham (formerly with Island Indoor Tennis), Howard Fielding (who is experienced in all types of recreation instruction) and Bob Barlow (a former pro hockey player who lately has been better known as Wendy's Dad).

And, of course, there can be no question of experience when it comes to teaching and to Gordon Hartley himself. I mean, who could have more? No one around here, anyway.

Though he's supremely fit and scarcely looks old enough, Gordon has been teaching tennis here for more than 33 years.

"I started in 1945 right after the War," he says, looking back. "I began as a playground director offering tennis as part of the playground program. But it was a time when courts were few and far between.

"In 1945 there were eight public courts in Greater Victoria," Gordon says with a smile.

"Today, there are simply hundreds, and tennis instruction has grown from a handful of kids learning to thousands of youngsters and adults of all ages.

"Added to all the outdoor courts we have, the facilities at the three indoor centres will make instruction easier and will enable more and more people to get into the great game of tennis."

Titans, SMU Win

Victoria Titans and St. Michael's University School came up with the only victories Wednesday during opening matches in the Greater Victoria High School Rugby League.

Titans, the defending British Columbia champions, downed Parkland Panthers 12-7 while St. Michael's blanked Oak Bay Barbarians, 13-0.

In the other match, Mt. Douglas Mountainmen and Claremont Spartans battled to a 9-9 deadlock.

Mark Wyatt set the pace for Titans by kicking two penalty goals and converting a try by Paul Pynn. Eric Jespersen scored the try for Panthers and Stefan Rehm booted a penalty goal.

Ross McLean sparked the St. Michael's offence by scoring a try and kicking a penalty goal as well as a conversion. Neil Patterson scored the other SMU try.

Mt. Douglas scored all its points in the first half to take a 9-3 lead on Kirk Nyquist's try and Steve Rose's penalty goal and conversion.

STOUT, SNELLING TOP TENPINNERS

The number "13" was far from unlucky for either Sue Stout or Keith Snelling.

The two captured tenpin laurels during the 13th week of competition in the 16th annual Times Bowler-of-the-Week contest.

Sue won the women's award with a 167-219-195 — 581 series in the Tuesday Mixed League at Duncan Lanes while Keith collected men's honors with a 225-213-224 — 662 effort in the Victoria Senior Tenpin League at Mayfair Lanes.

Jobson Gets Two For Leafs

Bill Jobson set the pace Wednesday as Esquimalt Maple Leafs clipped Juan de Fuca Merchants 6-3 in a South Island Big Six Hockey League game at Juan de Fuca Arena.

Two for Mt. Doug

Mt. Douglas squads collected victories in the only two Greater Victoria High School Basketball League games Wednesday.

Rams tripped Claremont Spartans 75-38 in the boys' game and Ramblers slipped past Claremont 53-47 in the girls' tussle.

Russ Thornton led Rams with 25 points, two more than the total contributed by clubmate Jay Loukes. The Mt. Doug team led 50-12 at half time.

SONICS TAKE LEAD

Pacer Coach Cries 'Foul'

By The Associated Press

Coach Bobby Leonard of Indiana Pacers cried foul.

"The officials just killed us," Leonard said Wednesday night after the Pacers lost 112-102 to Seattle SuperSonics, who were called for 19 fouls in the National Basketball Association game compared with 28 for Indiana.

"Seattle's a good club; they don't need those breaks," Leonard said. "We're going to send the tape (of the game) in (to the NBA office). We've been playing good basketball and this kind of officiating really hurts us."

Guards Gus Williams and Dennis Johnson also helped kill the Pacers, scoring 26 and 21 points, respectively, and keying a 17-4 second-quarter tear.

Seattle, a team which recently has done well with the referees, outscored Indiana 24-12 from the line.

"If we went to the line all the times we got fouled, it would have been a much closer game," Leonard said. "The stats were almost even except for free throws and fouls, and it was on our home court, too."

Elsewhere, Kansas City clobbered Boston 120-99, Atlanta edged Portland 111-110, New Jersey got by Detroit 106-99, Philadelphia defeated Cleveland 107-94, Washington downed New Orleans 112-102, San Antonio defeated Denver 119-102, Milwaukee downed Phoenix 123-118, San Diego topped Los Angeles 119-117 and Houston edged Golden State 104-103.

Scott Wedman scored 32 points.

Mexico to Defend UVic Volleyball Title

University of Mexico will be back to defend its men's title but the women's crown is up for grabs as over 400 players from three countries descend on Victoria this weekend for the annual University of Victoria invitational volleyball tournament.

The tournament gets underway at 5:45 p.m. Friday and resumes at 9 a.m. Saturday at three centres — UVic's McKinnon Gym, the old UVic Gym and Mt. Douglas High School.

On Sunday, all action is at the McKinnon Gym starting at 9 a.m. with the women's final slated for 1 and the men's for 2:30 p.m.

The strongest opposition to the University of Mexico in the men's division is expected to come from B.C. Olympics and Winnipeg Roadrunners, ranked first and second, respectively, last year in Canada.

UVic Viking coach Kent Andrews is looking forward to the competition.

"We are going into our own tournament with a healthy outlook," he explained, "and we could well spring some upsets."

Pre-tourney favorites in the women's division include Chimo Seniors of Vancouver, the Vancouver Old Time Ladies Club, UBC Thunderettes and the Portland Volleyball Club.

Sutherland-Brown canned 27 points, incuding 16 in the first half as Ivy's took a 60-49 lead.

The league leaders, who are now 12-0, also collected double figure efforts from Ian Scott (17), John Albers (16) and Rick Mark (12).

Tom Hatcher was high gun for Techline with 21 points and other double figures were shot by John Lauvaas (18), Ken Wiens (12) and Greg Ross (10).

Skillings Rink Still on Top

The Steve Skillings rink retained its hold on first place in the Men's Super League Tuesday night at the Racquet Club with a 9-8 victory over Al Frame.

Victory game Skillings a 9-3 record and a one-game lead over Barry Harvey (8-4) who defeated Ted Jurista (5-7) 7-1.

In other games, Don Edl (4-8) defeated Bob Hawkes (6-6) 8-6 and Don Matheson (5-7) won from Brad Clarke (7-5) 9-6.

Carew Deal Near?

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Agreement between Minnesota Twins and California Angels may soon be all that stands in the way of Rod Carew, a seven-time American League batting champion, switching teams for the 1979 baseball season.

Buzzie Bavasi, the Angels' general manager, met with Carew on Wednesday and indicated the Angels might agree to terms with the 33-year-old first baseman somet[illegible] Other results:

"We see no complications and we should have an affirmative report tomorrow," said Bavasi, who met with Carew and the player's lawyer, Jerry Simon, at an undisclosed location.

"We had a very pleasant meeting with the Angels today," said Simon. "We should have something positive to report tomorrow."

Simon, Carew and Mike Port, the Angels' player personnel director, met later Wednesday.

Carew, who has played for the Twins since 1967, is alleged to be asking for substantial money up front and a multi-year package worth up to $4 million.

If Carew and the Angels agree on a contract, California will have to work out a trade with Minnesota.

Players who are reported to have been offered for Carew include outfielder Ken Landreaux, infielder Dave Chalk and left-handed pitcher Ken Brett. Other names that have been mentioned as possibilities in a deal are right-handed pitchers Paul Hartzell and Dyar Miller and some minor leaguers.

The Twins are reported to have asked for third baseman Carney Lansford, who hit .294 as a rookie for the Angels last season. But California has said previously that the young third baseman is an untouchable.

Forest Rallies to Win

LONDON (AP) — Nottingham Forest, holders of the English League Cup, defeated Third-Division Watford 3-1 Wednesday in the first leg of the semi-final of this season's competition.

Watford—whose chairman is rock star Elton John—played some fine soccer and led after nine minutes when Jamaican-born striker Luther Blissett scored with a header.

But Forest hit back to score three times through Gary Birtles (2) and Winger John Robertson.

The second leg will be played at Watford with the winners meeting Southampton or Leeds in the final.

In the Football Association Cup, First-Division Ar- Third-Division Sheffield Wednesday in their fourth meeting. The teams tied 3-3 after extra time in the third replay of their third round match and have been unable to find a result after 450 minutes of action.

Celtics Trade With Sonics

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Celtics have continued their National Basketball Association dealing, shipping backup centre Dennis Awtrey to Seattle SuperSonics for a No. 1 college draft choice this year.

On Tuesday night, the Celtics traded forward Billy Knight to Indiana Pacers for forward-centre Rick Robey.

Canada's Voice Muted

OTTAWA (CP) — "Canada's Voice to the World," as Radio Canada International is billed by the CBC, is to be weakened starting April 1 because of the CBC's budget cuts announced in mid-1978.

Sources within the international radio service say they have been informed that their $9-million budget is to be slashed by about 22 per cent and that 38 of the 205 employees are to be let go.

The international service, set up in the 1940s to inform the rest of the world about Canada, now broadcasts 18 hours a day in 11 languages to an estimated audience of four million in the United States, Central and South America, Africa and Europe.

When the CBC appeared before the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) last October for its licence renewal, commissioner J. L. Gagnon expressed some dismay that the budget cuts might affect the international broadcasts.

Gagnon said the CBC board of directors should not have such power.

Theft Reported Rife in PO

TORONTO (CP) — Two men who worked for the post office during the Christmas rush say that stealing, vandalism and laziness on the job are widespread at the Gateway postal building in nearby Mississauga.

Ronald Meigh, 44, and Stephen Wroblewski, 20, also had harsh words for post office supervisors and said sorting machinery frequently breaks down and damages or destroys mail.

About 40 per cent of Canada's bulk mail is handled at the centre west of Toronto.

The two men worked for two months handling parcels and said they saw many examples of stolen or broken parcels, workers sleeping or drinking while on the job, workers kept inactive by equipment problems and temporary workers told by full-time workers to slow their work pace.

Edward Roworth, director of public affairs for the post office's Ontario region, and Arnold Gould, president of the Toronto local of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, agreed that many of the problems exist.

Wroblewski and Meigh said parcels are routinely damaged or broken by equipment which requires drops of up to two metres.

Roworth said damage to parcels is a serious problem but 60 per cent of the damage is due to poor packaging.

He said an inquiry into the mail sorting plant has been completed but its report, which is to be delivered to the postmaster-general, has not been written.

Roworth added that problems with equipment are part of debugging and are short-term.

Gould, who has worked at the plant, said the sorting system appeared to have been designed by someone with no post office experience.

He said some parcels stay in the system for up to five weeks before leaving the plant.

He and Roworth agreed some workers are harassed for working too fast. Gould said he does not agree with the practice.

No Trace of PCBs

REGINA (CP) — Analysts have been unable to detect any trace of polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs) in a sample taken from a land-fill site near the city, the water pollution control branch of the Saskatchewan environment department announced Wednesday.

The site was tested after reports that fluids dumped into a disposal pit might have contained PCBs, a potential cancer-causing substance.

Order-in-Council Could Legalize Pot

RAPOCH
. . . 2.5 million supporters

OTTAWA (CP) — Government was urged Wednesday to put an end to "reefer madness" by eliminating the offence of possession of marijuana.

"Every day the government stalls a change, 160 more people are saddled with a criminal record which will haunt them for life," Andy Rapoch, executive director of the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws in Canada (NORML) said at a news conference.

He urged incoming Governor-General Ed Schreyer and the Trudeau cabinet to remove marijuana from the Schedule of Narcotics by simple order-in-council.

Rapoch said that with the Canadian dollar at 85 cents and imported marijuana selling at $65 an ounce, home cultivation would save not only users but the country money.

Rapoch, a 33-year-old public servant, said NORML has a membership of 1,500 "and 2.5 million supporters" — the Canadians estimated to smoke marijuana regularly.

Referring to Justice Minister Marc Lalonde's expressed intention to bring in a marijuana bill before the next federal election, Rapoch said that legislation isn't needed.

If Lalonde was sincere, he would have the cabinet, through order-in-council, remove marijuana from the Schedule of Narcotics to Schedule G of the Food and Drug Act, thus eliminating possession as an offence.

The next step would be to remove by legislation all references to marijuana in the Narcotics Control Act.

LAST LEGER BALL

OTTAWA (CP) — The room and the people glittered Wednesday evening at a formal farewell ball held by retiring Gov.-Gen. Jules Leger and his wife Gaby at their official residence, Rideau Hall.

More than 300 politicians, dignitaties and personal friends filled the dazzling 105-year-old ballroom to dance, drink and dine in a final Government House celebration with the Legers.

The vice-regal couple, followed by Prime Minister Trudeau and Helene, the Leger's divorced daughter, entered the room led by a lone bagpiper.

The Legers led the first dance to the tune of "The Night is So Young and You Are So Beautiful." An eight-piece band was playing.

Joint Bargaining Urged as Solution

OTTAWA (CP) — A government-commissioned study prescribes joint bargaining and preventive mediation as part of the cure for labor-management problems in industries under federal jurisdiction.

The study, released today by Labor Minister Martin O'Connell, recommends that the federal mediation and conciliation service, now a branch of the labor department, be established as an independent agency with influence over private and public sectors under federal jurisdiction.

The commissioners, headed by Frances Bairstow of McGill University, acknowledged that union and management groups they spoke to during their investigation had reservatins about wider-based bargaining.

But the commission concluded "the advantages of wider-based bargaining greatly outweigh the disadvantages."

Opponents to wider-based bargaining, which would include a number of unions in the same industry bargaining jointly, foresee the potential for strikes and lock-outs of a more immense or damaging nature—"the so-called big bang theory."

The commission said it does not agree that such a situation would be disadvantageous.

Labor, Too, Flees Que.

By JOHN FERGUSON
Canadian Press

OTTAWA — Workers streamed out of Quebec last year and headed for other parts of the country as the province showed a job growth rate of less than half that of the other provinces.

Statistics Canada figures show that while about 50,000 more Quebecers held jobs in December, 1978, than a year earlier, the increase was only about two per cent.

In the other nine provinces, there were about 350,000 more people working, an increase of about five per cent.

The increase in Quebec's labor force — those either working or looking for work — was only 1.2 per cent, compared with a 4.6-per-cent increase in the rest of the country.

The figures show that in spite of massive federal spending on public works projects in Quebec — more than in all other parts of the country combined — the number of jobs in construction in the province fell by 12,000 to 116,000.

The shift of head offices out of the province, such as the highly-publicized Sun Life affair — also took its toll.

Statistics Canada says there were 128,000 persons working in finance, insurance and real estate in December, a drop of 5,000 from a year earlier.

One trend in which the province was in line with other parts of the country was in the cut in government jobs. There were 16,000 fewer people working in public administration at the end of the year, a reduction of about nine per cent from 181,000 a year earlier.

There was about a four-per-cent reduction in public administration employment in all provinces in 1978, Statistics Canada says.

Catch-Up Clauses Attacked

OTTAWA (UPC) — The Centre for the Study of Inflation and Productivity has warned it is not the time for large "catch up" wage increases designed to correct pay differences.

In a statement Wednesday, The Centre was referred specifically to a recent settlement between Bell Canada and 15,000 Canadian Telephone Employees Association members.

Robert Douglas, executive director of the centre said large increases "could seriously complicate the country's collective effort towards avoiding a renewed burst of high prices and wage increases."

Bell Canada, Douglas said, felt its clerical workers had fallen behind other workers doing the same kind of work and decided that an above-average increase in salaries was necessary.

No Oil Promise From Mexicans

OTTAWA (CP) — Mexico has not made any commitments to provide crude oil supplies to eastern provinces, Petro-Canada president Bill Hopper said Wednesday.

Hopper, just back from a trip to Mexico and Venezuela with Energy Minister Alastair Gillespie, told reporters "there are no commitments on either side."

Negotiators for the government-owned oil company will open talks in Mexico and Hopper predicted that within a few months "we'll have a definitive statement" on the trade.

Late last week, Gillespie said in Mexico City he had assurances that Mexico would supply 100,000 barrels a day to the east coast by late 1980. He was unavailable for further comment Wednesday.

Hopper said the talks will involve getting Mexico to purchase goods and services from Canada in return for buying some of their oil supplies.

He felt using crude oil purchases to sell other goods to foreign countries "is a good policy for Canada to adopt." Some proposals include sale of Candu nuclear reactors or metallurgical coal.

RCMP Probe In U.S.

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada's royal commission on RCMP wrongdoing moved its investigation to Washington this week for a series of secretly-arranged meetings.

The commission, headed by Mr. Justice McDonald, arrived on an unannounced visit to the U.S. capital on Monday. It was to leave today after an intensive series of talks.

Commission secretary Harry Johnson refused, however, to discuss either the purpose or the visit or the officials the group was meeting.

In an interview Tuesday, he said he believes the purpose for the trip will be made clear next week in Ottawa.

Canadian embassy, state department and other U.S. officials also refused in interviews to reveal any information about the visit.

It appears clear, however, that one thing not on the agenda is a meeting with self-proclaimed RCMP informer Warren Hart, who has been seeking a meeting with the three commissioners.

Ottawa 'Shafted' CP Air on Routes

CALGARY (CP) — The federal government has loaded excessive taxes on air travel and has "shafted" CP Air in route allocation, CP Air president Ian Gray said Wednesday.

Despite that, he told a chamber of commerce meeting, many people unfairly accuse airlines of inadequate service and needlessly-high prices.

"I know of no other product or service which can match the airlines' record of offering lower prices and improved service," he said.

"It is frustrating, damn frustrating, to be bombarded by criticism from many angles—many of them self-appointed, self-serving organizations—which hammer the airlines, yet seem to largely ignore much greater price hikes in other products and services."

Since 1966, air fares have risen less than half the 80-per-cent increase in general consumer prices, with much of the "modest" air fare increase being due to government charges, he said.

Despite "violent" airline objections, Ottawa recently announced that its maximum passenger-ticket tax will rise to $15 from $8 on both domestic and international flights and airport user fees will jump by 20 per cent.

PLO Pickle Can Blasts 20 As Atherton, Israelis Meet

JERUSALEM (AP) — A blast from a Palestinian guerrilla bomb, hidden in a pickle can, wounded 20 persons in a crowded open-air market in the heart of the Jewish half of Jerusalem today as U.S. Mideast mediator Alfred Atherton began his second day of talks with Israeli leaders.

Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization said in Beirut that one of its underground units in Israel was responsible.

A Jerusalem police spokesman who gave the toll in the blast said the bomb went off during mid-morning near a vegetable stand in the Mahane Yehuda market, packed with pre-Sabbath shoppers.

Police said injuries were "light to medium" and that no deaths were reported. The area was cordoned-off and casualties were taken to nearby Shaarei Zedek Hospital. The market is near the busy Jaffa Road and about one kilometre from the walls of Jerusalem's old city.

Six months ago another terrorist bomb ripped through the market, killing two Israelis and wounding 47 others, and 10 years earlier guerrillas set off explosives in a parked car in the market, killing 12 Israelis and wounding more than 50 others.

The latest bombing came two days after Israel raided a Palestinian base in Lebanon, and five days after guerrillas attacked the northern Israeli town of Maalot. One Israeli woman died in the Maalot attack Saturday and the three guerrillas were killed.

Atherton and the Israelis were discussing language problems blocking agreement on a draft peace treaty between Israel and Egypt.

Atherton, an ambassador at large who is likely to travel to Egypt on Sunday, asked for and was granted a meeting Wednesday night with Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan.

A large part of the meeting was devoted to what Atherton told reporters was a review of the general Middle East situation "including recent developments" — an apparent reference to the Iranian turmoil which has cut Israel from its main source of oil.

Oldest Ancestor Identified

CLEVELAND (AP) — An ape-like creature that strode the savannahs of Africa four million years ago has been identified as the oldest known direct ancestor of man, anthropologists said today.

The creature, dubbed the Afar ape man, walked upright with a human-like body but had the face and brain of an ape.

The discovery shows that humans and apes may be more closely related than was previously imagined, said Drs. Donald Johanson of the Cleveland Museum of Natural History and T. D. White of the University of California at Berkeley.

Afar ape man also proves that human ancestors were walking on two feet millions of years before they made stone tools, he said.

Some anthropologists thought it was the evolutionary pressure to free their hands for the use of tools that pushed men up from the stooped ape posture.

INVENTORS LIKE MONEY, CHINA FINDS

TOKYO (AP) — China announced a new policy toward inventors Wednesday and said it is necessary to give them monetary rewards so that society as a whole benefits from their works.

Under the former leaders, enthusiasm for socialism was supposed to be enough to bring forth all-out efforts from all Chinese.

The official Hsinhua news agency said rewards now will be given for new, advanced, and practical inventions that would range from $625 to $6,250 with particularly important inventions receiving special prizes.

Wayne's Stomach Operation Failed to Foil Cancer

Times News Services

LOS ANGELES — A 9½-hour operation last week failed to take all the cancer from John Wayne's body and there is "a probability that it will spread," a hospital spokesman said Wednesday.

Cancerous cells have been discovered in the lymph nodes in the 71-year-old actor's stomach area, said the spokesman, Bernard Strohm, administrator of the UCLA Medical Centre.

Strohm said there is a possibility that cancer has spread to the lymph nodes throughout the body.

He said no decision has been made yet on whether more surgery is needed.

Asked if he could offer reassurances about Wayne's future, Strohm said, "I wish I could. Cancer is the type of disease that just doesn't give that option."

Wayne's future, he said, is "a guessing game."

The new cancer was found by a pathological report on body tissues tested after last week's surgery, Strohm told a news conference. That surgery was Wayne's second cancer operation. In 1964, part of his cancerous left lung was removed.

Lymph nodes, part of a system that spreads through all parts of the body, filter and process the colorless liquid that carries nourishment from the blood to the body tissues. The fluid is cleaned of debris and micro-organisms by the nodes, then returned to the blood vessels. The lymph system also produces many of the white blood cells.

Despite the setback, Wayne's general recovery from last week's surgery continues to be good, Strom said.

Wayne was told about the new cancer Tuesday night and he took the news in stride, according to his son, Michael. "He's been down this road before," Michael said. "We're hopeful."

"Doctors had prepared us for this eventuality," said another son, Patrick. "It didn't come as a total shock."

It was the second major surgery in nine months for Wayne. Last April, doctors in Boston performed open heart surgery to replace a defective heart valve.

Michael, the eldest of Wayne's sons, said the family had been told the 71-year-old actor can leave the hospital in a week to 10 days, and "hopefully resume a normal life."

He added that Wayne gets out of bed and moves around now. "He isn't sprinting or ready to play in the Super Bowl, though," he said.

Wayne entered surgery last Friday for what was announced as a routine gall bladder removal. Doctors said they removed his stomach, fashioning a replacement from intestinal tissue, after unexpectedly finding an "unusual, low-grade" cancer there.

A recent study at the Sloan-Kettering Memorial Institute in New York indicated 47 per cent of patients with stomach cancer live five years or longer after surgery if there was no lymph node involvement.

The five-year survival rate dropped to 15 per cent if the cancer cells had spread.

BUILDING BLAZE CLOSES STRAND

LONDON (AP) — More than 100 firemen battled a fire that raged through a 12-storey office building in the heart of London today.

At first it was feared some people were trapped inside, but later police and firemen said there were no casualties.

The fire was at Villers House, a large office block on the Strand near Charing Cross Station and Trafalgar Square. The Strand was closed to traffic for several hours as firemen used more than 20 pumps to fight the flames.

A janitor in the building when the fire broke out called firemen and police, then escaped. Within minutes the building was ablaze from the sixth floor up. Firemen were not able to enter the upper floors for two hours.

The cause of the fire was not immediately determined, but police said it was not connected with explosions during the night at a gasworks at Greenwich, east of London, and at a Texaco oil storage depot on Canvey Island in the Thames Estuary. The Irish Republican Army claimed responsibility for the explosions in a telephone call to the Press Association, Britain's domestic news agency.

Fireworks, Spirits Soar Heralding Greenland Home Rule

GODTHAAB (AP) — Braving howling blizzards, Greenlanders voted more than 2 to 1 for home rule for their sprawling ice-crusted North Atlantic island after 250 years of Danish administration.

Rockets and fireworks soared into the northern sky and paraders marched by torchlight here as islanders celebrated the vote results.

Of 18,139 votes counted, election authorities said 12,709 Greenlanders voted for home rule, 4,687 were opposed, 508 ballots were blank and 235 were invalidated.

CAMBODIANS STILL FIGHTING BACK

BANGKOK (AP) — Vietnamese forces assaulted the Cambodian island bastion of Kong today, launched heavy air strikes against two embattled coastal port areas and were faced with resistance in at least six hotspots across Cambodia, military analysts said.

Thai intelligence sources said Vietnamese troops, supported by gunboats, made their attack from the seaward side of Kong, located just off the coast of southwestern Cambodia. Other reliable sources confirmed the attack against one of the bases of the ousted Phnom Penh regime, but could not say who holds the island.

One analyst described the situation at Cambodia's only deep-water port, Kompong Som, as "highly contested" with neither side being able to use the city's vital port.

Thai intelligence sources said the Vietnamese have moved large gunboats into the bay of Kompong Som to pound onshore resistance and were bringing reinforcements into the area along Highway 4, Phnom Penh's 200-kilometre route to the sea.

Fighting was also reported at Kampot, further along the coast toward Vietnam from Kompong Som; Sisophon in the northwest; near the famous 11th-century Buddhist temple of Preah Vihear in the remote north; around the provincial capital of Mondolkiri in the northeast, and southeastern Takeo province.

Thai Premier Kriangsak Chomanan told a news conference in Tokyo that his government will "resist fiercely" if the fighting spills over into Thailand.

And President Carter at his news conference Wednesday warned the Soviet Union and Vietnam against allowing the invaders or their Cambodian allies to cross the frontier.

Pol Pot's ambassador to Laos, Sam San, arrived in Bangkok en route to Peking and told reporters 4,000 Russian advisers are operating with the Vietnamese invasion force in Cambodia. He said he has photographs to support the claim but he did not show them.

FAVORS JAIL OVER TAXES

SAN FRANCISCO — A determined Irish Sweepstakes winner who went to prison rather than pay income taxes on a $128,410 prize has spurned a third chance to gain his freedom. Frank McNulty, 63, declined again Wednesday to pay taxes and penalties he owes the U.S. government and was ordered back to prison until an April 3 hearing. U.S. District Judge Alfonso Zirpoli told McNulty for the third time: "You have the key to the jailhouse yourself." He contends his winnings are not taxable because he collected them in Irish pounds and placed them in a foreign bank.

MENTON, France — Pierre Lapeyre was an independent man. When he could no longer look after himself at the age of 101, he hanged himself. "He was always afraid of being a burden," said Clotilde Guglielmi, his landlady and the woman who looked after him when he became crippled by arthritis. Lapeyre entered an old age home at 92, but treasured his independence so much that he moved out, and took a room in town.

WASHINGTON — The Washington Post says federal prosecutors in Baltimore are recommending that the U.S. justice department seek a reinstatement of the political corruption conviction of former governor Marvin Mandel of Maryland. The recommendation from the U.S. attorney's office must go through a long chain of command in the justice department before a final decision is made on whether to seek a rehearing of the case, the newspaper says. By a 2-to-1 vote last week, three judges of the seven-member circuit court overturned the 1977 mail fraud and racketeering convictions of Mandel and his five co-defendants.

CANBERRA — The Australian government announced today it has granted refugee status to an 18-year-old Soviet woman who jumped from a cruise ship in Sydney Harbor and swam ashore seeking political asylum. Immigration Minister Michael MacKellar said Lillian Gasinskayov, who arrived with nothing but the red bikini she was wearing, qualified for refugee status and will be allowed to reside in Australia.

Tears as Michelle Tells of 2 Abortions

Times News Services

LOS ANGELES — Michelle Triola Marvin testified Wednesday that she had two abortions in the six years she lived with actor Lee Marvin because "he wasn't interested in having any more children."

He had four from a previous, legal, marriage.

Miss Marvin, blinking back tears, testified in a barely audible voice that Marvin was "very sweet" when she told him of her first pregnancy in 1965.

"He said maybe I could find a doctor to give me a shot," she said in her second day of testimony. She added that she did get the injection and it worked.

When she became pregnant again in 1967, she said "he wanted me to have an abortion."

At that point, Miss Marvin's voice was so soft that Marvin, sitting across the room, said: "I can't hear a thing." Miss Marvin was ordered to speak louder.

Asked about the results of that abortion she said: "I have scars. I can't bear children."

Earlier, Miss Marvin had told how Marvin once became drunk and dangled a woman out the window of a Las Vegas hotel room.

She recalled the scene in Las Vegas:

"I was asleep in the bedroom and I heard someone screaming. I put on my robe and I went out into the living room and Mr. Marvin had a girl and was holding her outside the window by her leg.

"I nearly fainted. I went over to the window, pulled him away and got the girl back into the room."

She said it was one of many times during the shooting of various films that she rescued Marvin from potentially dangerous situations caused by his drinking problem.

Marvin's lawyer, David Kagon, told Superior Court Judge Arthur Marshall: "It's our contention a good part of this testimony is fictitious."

The importance of the abortion testimony in the non-jury trial was uncertain.

The Sweet Taste Of the Past

Recipes provide a legacy of the land in a new publication, This Is British Columbia — Recipes Through the Years, prepared jointly by Beautiful B.C. magazine and the B.C. ministry of agriculture.

The book follows the settlement in B.C. from the Ice Age to the present. Each wave of settlers — from Indians, through early pioneers, miners, and immigrants from overseas — brought with them their traditional ways of growing and preparing food.

–Here are two dessert recipes taken from Recipes Through the Years which will add a touch of elegance to the table.

APRICOT FLAN

Flan Shell

¼ cup shortening
⅔ cup sugar
¼ tsp. vanilla
2 eggs
1 cup flour
1 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. salt
⅓ cup milk.

Cream together sugar and shortening; add vanilla and eggs, one at a time. Beat well after each addition. Sift together flour, baking powder, and salt. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk to creamed mixture. Grease and flour flan pan; pour in batter. Bake at 350 deg. F. for 20 min. (Makes 1 12-in. flan.)

Apricot buttercream filling

1½ cups butter
3 cups icing sugar
2 eggs
2 tsp. vanilla
2 tbsp. apricot brandy

Beat butter until fluffy; add sugar and mix well. Add eggs, one at a time, to mixture. Beat well after each addition. Slowly add vanilla and brandy; mix and refrigerate. To serve, pour filling into flan shell and cover with apricot topping. (Makes filling for 1 flan.)

Apricot topping

10 fresh apricots, skinned, halved, and pitted
1 cup apricot jam

Lay apricot halves cut side down on filling in flan shell. Place jam in small saucepan and heat until melted. Pour over or brush onto apricot halves. Refrigerate.

VICTORIAN TRIFLE

6 egg yolks
1½ cup sugar
2 cups milk
1 cup light cream
¾ cup sherry
1 small sponge cake, torn in pieces
1 cup raspberry jam
10 macaroon cookies, crumbled
1½ cups chopped apricots
1 cup whipping cream
2 tbsp. sugar.

Mix egg yolks and ½ cup sugar in top of a double boiler. Add milk and light cream. Cook over hot, not boiling, water until custard coats a silver spoon. Stir in ¼ cup of the sherry; reserve remainder. Cool.

Arrange half the cake pieces in serving dish; cover with jam, then rest of cake pieces. Spread crumbled macaroons over. Pour remaining sherry over all. let stand 30 min. Cover with apricots.

Pour cooled custard over. Whip cream until stiff, gradually adding 2 tbsp. sugar. Garnish trifle with whipped cream. Chill well before serving. (8 servings.)

Nitrate Ban Poses Meaty Problem

By RUTH FREMES
and ZAK SABRY

It has been known for many years that excessive consumption of nitrates is hazardous to health. Nitrates are converted to nitrites in the mouth by saliva and in the stomach by the gastric juices. These nitrites combine with amines in foods and in the digestive tract to form nitrosamines, which cause cancer in laboratory animals.

From time to time, we read statements from scientists who express concern over the addition of nitrites to foods. Industry usually responds with arguments that:

1. Nitrites occur naturally in several foods;

2. We have no direct evidence that nitrosamines are formed from the nitrites added to food, and

3. Nitrites are needed to check the growth of the botulinum bacteria, which pose a more deadly health hazard than cancer.

Initially, food processors added nitrites to meat products made from beef, pork, lamb, poultry or fish to give them an appealing pink or red color. Later, it was found that the presence of nitrites controls the growth of botulinum bacteria, which is capable of producing one of the most powerful poisons known to man.

These arguments for and against the use of nitrites in food present a very difficult problem to the government regulators, in our Health Protection Branch. However, several years ago, our Food and Drug Regulations were altered to reduce the amount of nitrites in processed meats to a level considered to be the minimum needed to control the botulinum bacteria. The United States Food and Drug Administration acted similarly.

At that time, FDA commissioned a major study to be conducted at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, to evaluate the safety of ingesting nitrites. The results of that study were released this year, and provide solid evidence that nitrites are themselves carcinogens.

eating right

Bacon, bologna and all types of cured meats will likely vanish from the stores if the anti-additive forces win their argument and prevent the use of nitrates as a preservative

In that study, amines were kept out of the animal feed so that nitrosamines could not be formed. It appeared certain from the design of the experiments and from the results that nitrates were not converted to nitrosamines and the cancer produced was caused by nitrites themselves.

The rats fed nitrites in their diets had 4.6 per cent more tumors of the lymph tissues and 3.6 per cent more pre-cancerous lesions than did the control animals with no nitrites in their diet.

Now, both the Food and Drug Administration and the Department of Agriculture in the United States are recommending that nitrites be banned entirely as food additives.

It is remarkable that both government agencies have joined forces in recommending this ban. It will obviously be opposed or, at least, resisted by food processors and some politicians. But, the battle is only beginning in the States.

In Canada, the initial reaction from the Health Protection Branch is: Nothing doing, if the U.S. removes nitrites from bacon and other cured meats, action will have to be taken to ban their sale in Canada.

It is estimated that Canada imports about two million pounds of bacon and cured meats from the U.S. annually.

That's a very interesting reaction. Of course, if nitrites were to be banned from processed meat, some way must be found to control the growth of botulinum. Otherwise, the ban on nitrites will mean the disappearance of bacon and all types of cured meats, including some favorite luncheon meats. But, let us digress for a momenmt to tell a "cheese story."

Up to about two years ago, the addition of nitrites was not allowed in cheese. That was never deemed necessary because the hygenic conditions for cheese manufacturing had been impeccable and there was no danger of botulism resulting from eating cheese.

This apparently is not so with European cheeses, for the addtion of nitrites in cheese- making is common in Europe. This presented some difficulty for cheese importers, and obviously they must have urged the Health Protection Branch to extend the use of nitrites to cover cheese as well as meat. This was done about two years ago, clearly to facilitate trade rather than to protect us from botulism.

Now back to the meat situation.

A couple of months ago, a statement quoted a Health Protection Branch spokesman as saying that Canada is "standing pat" on the levels of nitrites used in cured meats because "we believe levels of nitrites used in meats in Canada are not cancer producing to humans".

Well, let us digress again to tell a "saccharin story," which many of our readers will remember.

At the height of the saccharin saga, many skeptics of the saccharin ban were complaining that one will have to drink 800 saccharin-laden soda pop bottles each of every day for many years to develop cancer.

We recall Dr. A. B. Morrison, Assistant Deputy Minister responsible for the Health Protection Branch, explaining in one television interview that if a substance is carcinogenic at high level of intake, it is going to be carcinogenic at low levels, the difference will be in the time it takes for the tumors to develop; the risk will always be there if you consume a carcinogen at any level.

That made sense to us. So, why wouldn't the same principle apply to other carcinogens, such as nitrites?

The issue of banning nitrites in meat and cheese has far-reaching consequences.

For meat, it will mean no more processed meats until new ways are found to control the botulinum bacteria. For cheese, it will mean a curb on the importation of European cheeses. So, it should not surprise that utmost caution is needed in resolving the issue.

In the meantime, it would be prudent for consumers to moderate their consumption of bacon and other processed meats containing nitrites. Whenever a choice exists between a meat product with nitrites listed on the label and one without nitrites, favor the nitrite-free product.

Prepare your own meat rather than relying on processed products. A roast could be prepared once a week and carefully sliced for sandwiches as needed.

And now for something completely different.

We continue to receive mail from readers who are making their own yogurt with varying degrees of success. At last count, the successful ones out-numbered the unsuccessful ones.

However, several readers shared with us what appears to be simple recipes (claimed to be fool-proof). So, we decided to share two such recipes. We haven't tried them, but they sound reasonable.

C. M. of Toronto, said that for years he has been making yogurt the following way: "in a 100-oz. mayonnaise bottle, I combine the hottest water I can run from the tap and whatever looks like 'enough' skim milk powder (we estimate a cup of powder to two cups of water). To that, I add about ¼ cup of yogurt from the previous batch. I do not stir it, put the lid on loosely, wrap the jar in a blanket, a couple of sweaters, top it with my bath robe (that's a lot of clothes), and leave it overnight. Perfect every time."

D. F. of Toronto suggested his method, which is similar to C. M.'s. He said, "I simply mix toghether two cups of skim milk powder and four cups of water. To this I add a teaspoon of starter — i.e. leftover yogurt from a previous batch. This I place in the four containers of my yogurt maker, plug it in and leave it overnight. In the morning, I have firm tasty yogurt. If I wish to add fruit, I do so immediately and place everything in the fridge."

Another useful tip came from G. C. of London, Ont. She said, "When your yogurt is thick as custard, take some off the first batch and put it in the freezer to be the 'mother starter' for later culturing. It's a good idea to put it away in an ice cube tray, in three tablespoon portions so that the yogurt freezes very quickly.

"You can continue to use a culture from each batch to start the next. After about a month, the yogurt culture may be weakened by competing strains. That is when you pull out a reserve mother culture from the freezer and start a fresh batch."

Fuel-Saving Pizza Mix

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new homemade pizza mix is a fuel-saving product. It cooks in a skillet — rangetop or electric — in 14 to 17 minutes. That's cheaper than heating a large oven cavity to bake pizza the conventional way. The product includes a can of sauce, shredded cheese and crust mix and comes in three varieties — cheese, sausage and pepperoni. One carton of mix makes 4 servings.

QUESTION:
Is the dark meat of chicken and turkey better for you or more nourishing than the light meat?

ANSWER:
There is very little difference between the nutritive value of the dark and white meat. The dark meat does contain a little more fat than the white meat which makes it juicier. Dark meat contains less niacin than the white meat, but the differences are minor. Whatever your choice, light or dark, they both contain a good proportion of your day's requirement for protein, iron, phosphorous and B-complex vitamins.

QUESTION:
I prepare most of my baby's food at home in the blender because I can control the amount of sugar and salt that my baby is getting. I would like to buy these foods once in a while, but I cannot find any products for babies that do not contain added salt or sugar. Do you know of any?

ANSWER:
You will save money preparing your baby's food at home in the blender, and it is good nourishing food too. The nutritionists suggest you read the label carefully for added salt and sugar. The major manufacturers such as Heinz and Gerber no longer add salt to baby foods.

Water Added To Cure Ham

By Dr. JEAN MAYER and
Dr. JOHANNA DWYER

Q. I am puzzled by the term "ham, water added." Could you tell me why water is added to ham?

A. The water added to hams is really the curing solution. In making hams, the meat is usually injected with a brine which contains salt, sugar, nitrates and nitrites. Sometimes it also contains ascorbic acid, which helps to fix the color, as well as a limited amount of phosphate to help the ham retain the curing solution.

The meat is then placed in casks where it may also be covered with the pickling solution. After several days, the hams are washed and hung to dry. Some are smoked.

Under federal law, the finished ham must weigh the same before and after it has been cured. If it weighs more because some of the curing solution has been absorbed, then the term "water added" is used.

Canned hams must gain no more than eight per cent water, and cured hams no more than 10 per cent. Hams which contain more than this are considered adulterated and must be smoked or cooked to get some of the water out before they can be sold.

Q. Our young grandson has just become diabetic and his doctor has put him on a careful diet. In comparing notes with parents of other diabetic children, we have found that treatments seem to vary. Why is this?

A. The dietary management of juvemnile diabetes has been a matter of considerable controversy over the years. At present, it appears that poor control of the diesease intensifies changes in the blood vessels and interferes with growth. Since good control requires a proper balance among food, insulin and exercise, diet is clearly important.

Some physicians feel that the best way to achieve this is for their patients to weigh all their foods. Other physicians ask their patients to use the exchange method. In the exchange system, the child and his family must learn to estimate calorically equivalent portions of food within several food groups.

For example, he must learn that he will get the same amount of carbohydrate and energy from a small apple, half of a small banana or a half cup of blueberries. Or that a slice of bread is comparable to ¾ cup of dry cereal. Some doctors who use this approach also allow an occasional sweet, such as ice cream. Finally, some physicians prescribe unmeasured diets, a system which allows for planning caloric intake to meet the energy demands of the day. These demands can be extremely variable, particularly with children.

Regardless of the individualized approach your doctor chooses, his goal is to avoid wide fluctuations in blood sugar. Thus the timing of meals and snacks to match both the onset and the peak of insulin activity is of paramount importance.

Q Could you tell me what causes ulcerative colitis and explain the role of diet in managing the disease?

A. We don't know what causes ulcerative colitis, nor do we know how to cure it. While complete recoveries do occur, more commonly the disease is characterized by flare-ups and remissions.

Ulcerative colitis is an inflammatory disorder of the large bowel. The symptoms include diarrhea, often with both blood and mucus, as well as abdominal pain, nausea and loss of appetite. The aim of dietary management is, to a large extent, to control these symptoms. Frequent small feedings, rather than large meals, appear to be more effective in reducing the number of bowel movements.

Laxative foods and beverages are generally avoided. Too, a number of individuals, particularly those with severe, long-standing disease, also suffer from lactose intolerance.

In those cases milk is eliminated. Beyond that, however, specific food intolerances vary widely.

Since bowel tissue is destroyed by the disease, it is important to include generous amounts of both protein and calories to provide for the rebuilding process.

FANCY FRANK

8 wieners
1 medium tomatoe, peeled and chopped
¼ cup shredded, imported Edam or Gouda
1 small clove garlic, crushed
¼ teaspoon basil
8 slices side bacon

Slit wieners lengthwise, cutting almost to ends and only ¾ of the way through. Combine tomatoe, cheese and seasoning. Stuff wieners, wrap each securely with a bacon strip. Hold in place with toothpicks. Place, filling side down, on grill. Barbecue over medium low coals, turning often for about 10 to 15 minutes or till filling is hot and bacon crisp. Serve in hot dog buns or small submarine rolls. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT . . .
BY DANIEL RIGOLLET

Ice cream sundaes may be kid stuff — but not when they're topped with the likes of flavored liqueurs, bittersweet chocolate, brandied fruit, or slivered almonds. Makes an easy, elegant dessert.

Fruitcake keeps best — in your freezer, or airtight at room temperature — if not frosted. (Keeps even longer if sprinkled with rum or brandy now and then.)

For party-size hors d'oeuvres, bake a quiche in a 10x15 jelly-roll pan (1 package piecrust mix, 6 eggs, a quart of cream, and almost two pounds of filling). Cut into little squares to serve. Can be frozen and reheated at party time.

Finger Imprints Tell When Dough Kneaded

Baking bread is a passion for Bernard Clayton

craig claiborne

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — If ever a man followed that bit of biblical advice, "Ask and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find," it was Bernard Clayton Jr., a writer in this university town who, about four years ago, set off on a 7,000-mile journey around France to seek the formulas and bread-making techniques of that nation's legendary boulangers.

With the most limited knowledge of the French language, he started at Strasbourg, drove south to Cannes, across to Bayonne and the Basque country, through Roqefort and Bordeaux and back to mid-country.

He visited the Loire Valley and Orleans, went north to Le Havre, returned to Paris, and then drove through Luxembourg and back to Strasbourg. His quest also led him across the Atlantic on the last voyage of the liner France.

"Most of the bakers I met," Clayton recalled, "were, well — astonished. But when I'd tell them I wanted to join them at the beginning of their work day, 3 o'clock in the morning . . . How do you say flabbergasted in French?"

Clayton says bread should not be over-proofed, that is, left to stand for too long a period. "But it is better to over-proof than underproof." And if, he adds as consolation, the bread overproofs, "just knead it again and let it rise a second time."

"Breads will rise," he notes, "when left even in cold rooms, even refrigerators. It just takes longer. You shouldn't have too much anxiety about that 'warm, cozy place.' Aboard the France the bakers used to place the breads to rise even near an open porthole.

"The best advice I can offer a novice bread maker is this. Don't "gentle" the dough. Knead it with force, slam it down on the board. Beating it helps develop gluten."

He has a device to determine whether a batch of dough has been kneaded sufficiently. You place your open hand, fingers wide apart, on top. If the imprint remains when the hand is lifted, the kneading is enough.

OLD MILWAUKEE RYE BREAD

1 rye bread sponge (see recipe below)
1 envelope granular yeast
1 cup warm water
¼ cup all-natural dark molasses
2 tablespoons caraway seeds
1 egg, lightly beaten
1 tablespoon salt
1 cup medium rye flour
3 tablespoons solid white shortening
5 to 5½ cups all-purpose flour, approximately 1 egg, beaten
1 tablespoon milk.

1. Stir down the sponge. Dissolve yeast in the water. Add the yeast to the sponge, stirring. Add the molasses and half the caraway seeds. Stir to blend.

2. Add the lightly beaten egg and salt and blend once more. Add the rye flour and blend.

3. Add the shortening and beat to blend.

4. Add two cups of all-purpose flour and blend with a wooden spoon. Gradually add two more cups, kneading constantly.

5. Add more flour, about two tablespoons at a time, until the dough has a proper pliable and workable consistency. Turn the dough out onto a lightly floured board and continue kneading about six minutes or longer.

6. Knead and beat dough about 10 minutes. When ready, dough should weigh about three and one-half pounds.

7. Let warm water flow into a large bowl until bowl is heated. Drain, dry and grease the bowl with shortening. Shape the dough into a ball and add it to the bowl. Cover lightly with plastic wrap. Set aside to let rise one hour or until double in bulk.

8. If long bread tins or molds are to be used, grease them. Otherwise. use a Teflon baking sheet, ungreased.

9. Divide the dough into four portions of equal weight. Roll each piece into a long sausage shape with the palms of the hand. The shapes should be about 15 or 16 inches long. Place in molds and cover loosely with wax paper and set aside to rise about one hour or until double in bulk.

10. Meanwhile, preheat the oven to 375 degrees F.

11. Using a sharp blade, make several gashes on top of each loaf. Brush tops with egg beaten with milk. Sprinkle with remaining caraway seeds.

12. Place in the oven and bake about 40 minutes or until crisp crusted and baked through.

SPONGE FOR RYE BREAD

1 package granular yeast
1½ cups warm water
2 cups medium rye flour
1 tablespoon caraway seeds.

1. Combine the yeast and water in a large bowl. Stir to dissolve.

2. Add the flour and caraway seeds and stir to blend. Cover lightly with plastic wrap.

3. Although this sponge is usable after six hours, it is best left to stand from one to three days at room temperature. Three days will give a more sour taste, which many people prefer.

Yield: enough sponge for 2 to 4 loaves of rye bread.

CALIFORNIA SOURDOUGH WHOLE WHEAT BREAD

½ cup all-natural dark molasses
1 level tablespoon salt
3 tablespoons solid white shortening
2½ to 3 cups all-purpose flour, approximately.

1. In a large bowl, combine sponge, molasses and salt. Beat well with wooden spoon. Add shortening and beat vigorously, about 50 strokes.

2. Add 2½ to 2¾ cups of flour, kneading well. Turn the dough out onto a lightly floured board and continue kneading brusquely. If the dough feels moist, continue adding flour while kneading. Beat and slam it down on the flat surface. Knead about six minutes.

3. Run warm water in large bowl until bowl is warm. Drain, dry and lightly grease bowl with shortening.

4. Shape the dough into a ball and add it to the bowl. Cover tightly with plastic wrap. Let stand in a warm place about 1½ hours or until more than doubled in bulk.

5. Lightly grease two 8½-by-4½-by-2½-inch loaf pans.

6. Turn the dough out onto a lightly floured board and knead briefly. Divide the dough in half. Shape each half into a ball, then into an oval. Fold the dough in half lengthwise and pinch the ends to seal. Place the dough, seam-side down, in the pans and cover with wax paper. Let the dough rise for 30 minutes or until it has risen about one and one-half to two inches above the rim of the pan.

8. Meanwhile, preheat the oven to 375 degrees.

9. Using a sharp blade, make a gash lengthwise down the centre of each loaf. Make smaller, leaflike gashes on either side of lengthwise gash. Place in oven and bake about 40 minutes. As loaves bake, turn the pans around at least once for even cooking.

Yield: 2 loaves.

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: I'm 33, divorced (no kids), attractive, and I'd like to quit working and marry a man who can take good care of me. (Please, no lectures on "where's your pride?" I was married for nine years to a guy who was allergic to work. I took care of him all that time, and now I'd like to be on the other end of that kind of deal.)

I'm dating a 52-year-old man who wants to marry me. He qualifies in every respect. (He has money and doesn't mind spending it.) There are only two things wrong with him. He has a potbelly — which really turns me off. And he smokes cigars. (About 10 a day.)

Would it be a mistake for me to tell him I'll marry him if he gets rid of the potbelly and cigars?

MIDGE

DEAR MIDGE: Yes. If he were to agree to lose the potbelly and give up the cigars, you'd have no guarantee that he wouldn't develop another pot and resume cigar smoking. Take him as he is, or not at all.

DEAR ABBY: I am 27 years old and I'm engaged to a man I'll call Mike, who is also 27. We have known each other for a long time, but have been engaged only a month. Before the engagement we didn't discuss having a family. That was a mistake.

Now Mike tells me that he would like to have three or four children. Maybe I'm selfish, but I don't want any.

Abby, I have absolutey no patience with children and, knowing myself as I do, I wouldn't make a very good mother.

Mike and I love each other, but this has become a big issue. Please don't tell me that if I had a child I'd learn to love it. I don't want the work and responsibility of raising children. Perhaps I'm weird, but I don't think they're worth it. So what is your advice? DOESN'T WANT KIDS

DEAR DOESN'T: Tell Mike that unless he sees it your way, he'd better find another girl. I agree, you'd probably make a poor mother, but I applaud your honesty.

Opening lead - ace of hearts.

It's not easy to figure out how declarer made four spades in this deal — even if you see all four hands. After West leads the ace and another heart, East playing first the ten and then the four to indicate a doubleton, it looks as though declarer must lose a trick in each suit and go down one.

But South performed his task exceptionally well and brought home the contract. True, he knew from West's opening bid that West had to have virtually every missing high card, but even so South had to time his play perfectly to make four spades.

He got off on the right foot when he led the king of hearts from dummy at trick three. East ruffed with the ten and South overruffed with the queen. Now, proceeding on the premise that West had to have a doubleton diamond for his plan to succeed, declarer played the K-A of diamonds, followed by the A-6 of trumps, producing this position with West on lead:

West could not afford a heart lead, which would allow declarer to discard dummy's diamond as he ruffed in his hand, so he returned a low club instead. This did not solve West's difficulties, because he was soon in hot water again. Declarer took the club return in dummy and then played the ace and another club. West found himself on lead with the king of clubs, and this time had to return a heart and thus hand South the contract.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Diversify, but avoid scattering your forces. Display versatility, sense of balance and humor. Accent on pets, dependents, work and health resolutions. Gemini, Sagittarius persons figure prominently. You could find "luck" with number 3.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Good lunar aspect coincides now with escape, imagination, creativity and falling madly in love. Aquarius and Libra figure prominently. Imprint your own style. Give full rein to intellectual curiosity. A young person could inspire you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Stick to factual material. Deal with Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius persons. Build on solid base; reject substitutes. Don't be satisfied merely to know something happened — find out why it occurred.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Be diplomatic concerning major domestic, lifestyle adjustment. Taurus, Libra, Scorpio figure prominently. Visits, relatives, pertinent messages, short trips crowd your busy scenario. An idea, proffered by family member, could help you strike pay dirt.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): See clearly — avoid wishful thinking. Firm up money position. Steer clear of get-rich-quick schemes. A "psychic Pisces" knows the score. Don't permit pride to block progress. Accent on payment, collections, locating missing material.

LIBRA (Sept.23-Oct. 22): Lunar cycle high — take initiative, be independent, original and confident. Bring priorities into sharp, clear focus. You'll be given more responsibility — you'll have chance for greater rewards. Intriguing member of opposite sex could become a valuable ally.

SCORPIO (Oct.23-Nov. 21): Clandestine meeting could result in making restricted material available. You'll be rid of burden not rightly your own in first place. Aries, Libra persons figure prominently. You're able now to improve distribution and displays of your product.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov.22-Dec. 21): Get to heart of matters. Romance, creativity and love are very much in picture. Leo, Aquarius figure in your personal scenario. A wish "comes true." Friendship is intensified. If you're playing games, move on!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Emphasis on career, standing in community, civic duties, reputation and honor. You're being pulled in two directions simultaneously. Cancer person is on your side; know it and act accordingly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Long-distance communication is featured. Emphasis on humor, good fortune and valid opportunity for greater prosperity. Gemini, Sagittarius individuals play integral roles. Remember recent diet, nutrition resolutions.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Reject superficial indications. Dig beneath the surface. Accent on taxes, rentals, leases and financial obligations related to partner or mate. Aquarius, Scorpio and Taurus persons figure in scenario. The number 4 could play a key role.

IF JANUARY 19 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY July could be your most significant month of 1979, a year featuring new starts, greater independence, and opportunity for marvelous contacts which could coincide with vitality, prosperity and love. Leo, Aquarius persons play important roles in your life. You are self-indulgent, attractive, spoiled by members of the opposite sex, an original thinker and you do better when working for yourself than when employed by others. You have a unique way of illustrating and dramatizing your beliefs. You are a natural actor. Your knees and back are vulnerable to injury. Know it and avoid taking unnecessary risks where those parts of your body are concerned. Social life accelerates for you in February.

Iran Envoy Gets Khomaini Rebuff

TEHRAN (AP). — The new Iranian government sent an envoy today to seek peace with Ayatullah Khomaini, its most dangerous enemy, but aides to the Moslem holy man said he would not negotiate with the emissary and he rejects U.S. President Jimmy Carter's call to give the new government a chance.

Clashes between demonstrators and soldiers loyal to Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi continued for a second day today. Six to 20 persons were reported killed.

Sources here said Jalal Tehrani, head of the regency council standing in for the shah during his forced vacation abroad, was dispatched to meet Friday in Paris with Khomaini, the religious leader heading opposition to the shah and the government he left behind.

But in France the ayatullah's top aide, Ibrahim Yazdi, said Khomaini would not receive Tehrani "unless he has some other thing on his mind" than a discussion of a reconciliation with the new government of Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar. Yazdi said such talks were out of the question.

Ghotbzadeh said Khomaini maintains his position that the new government is illegal.

Asked whether this meant Khomaini rejects Carter's appeal, the aide said, "Obviously."

Khomaini's announced goal is to form an Islamic republic in Iran with a government controlled by him.

Sources here reported that Ramsey Clark, former U.S. attorney general, has been meeting for more than a week in Tehran with members of the National Front, chief political opponents of the shah and Bakhtiar. Clark, a Democrat, was reported on an unofficial, private visit, and there was speculation he was trying to establish contact between the Carter administration and the shah's foes.

Military sources said soldiers opened fire today on anti-shah demonstrators in Dezful, 100 kilometres north of the oil city of Ahwaz. They reported six persons killed and more than a dozen wounded but other sources reported 20 killed.

Thirty persons were reported killed Wednesday in Ahwaz when loyalist troops fired on tens of thousands of demonstrators jubilant over the shah's departure from Iran Tuesday. More violence was feared Friday, when Khomaini has called for peaceful demonstrations in honor of the seventh-century founder of the Shiite Moslem sect.

Army sources also reported that Kurdish tribesmen attacked an army post at Gourish, on the Iraqi border, killed two of the post's five soldiers and wounded two, then surrounded the post. The shah supported the Kurds in their rebellion against the government of Iraq until 1974, when he and the radical Iraqis patched up their differences.

The shah and Empress Farah were in Aswan, a winter resort in southern Egypt.

From Egypt, the shah and Empress Farah will go to the United States, but the date of their departure from Aswan has not been announced. Sources in Washington said they will stop en route in Morocco for a meeting with King Hassan.

TEAC A-103

Designing and producing quality tape recording equipment is TEAC's specialty. And the A-103 is proof that quality does not have to be sacrificed in a budget-priced deck. The A-103 was designed with the same philosophy and advanced technology developed for more expensive models. For example, its transport mechanism is the same type as that employed on the A-303. It also incorporates an FG servo-controlled DC motor for superior stabiliy and accuracy. The Dolby noise reduction system featured on the A-103 is behind its component-level sound, found on few other decks in this price range. In other words, the A-103 is a deck that looks great and sounds even better.

Scott's World

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press International

HOLLYWOOD — Each of Hollywood's six major studios has a personality and atmosphere of its own, distinct from the others by virtue of its executives, stars, history and location.

While most sound stages are pretty much the same. studio grounds, architecture, landscaping, offices and commissaries are varied and contrasting.

Actors, who travel from one lot to another in this day of universal free-lancing, prefer some studios to others simply because of the ambiance provided by the physical plant itself.

Cloris Leachman, who has worked at all the studios, recently completed The North Avenue Irregulars and agrees with other actors that Disney is the best and most cozy of the lots.

"It's so pretty it's almost like Disneyland. The people are friendly and casual. Everybody seems to know everybody else, like on a small college campus."

During production of The North Avenue Irregulars, Cloris, a vegetarian, took it upon herself to cook a huge vat of vegetable soup for the cast and crew in the studio's excellent commissary.

Cloris could never have prevailed upon any other commissary for her mission of mercy. Certainly not at 20th Century-Fox which she rates as harboring the worst commissary in town.

"It's the pits," she said, making a face.

"Universal is like a beehive. The commissary is always crowded and the food is terrific by comparison with most lots. The waitresses are wonderful."

MGM, during its years under Louis B. Mayer, was famed for its commissary menu, especially the chicken soup, the recipe for which was provided by Mayer. Today MGM's fare is ordinary.

"Paramount is among the worst. When you work there, you run to one of two restaurants around the corner at the noon break."

Cloris remembers Columbia Pictures when its chief, Harry Cohn, had a superb private dining room. But she says the small commissary catered to truck driver appetites.

Now Columbia and Warner Bros. share The Burbank Studios lot — formerly Warner Bros. Studio — and the old Warner's commissary which is divided into two sections. One room is for the peasants, the other for the elite.

Statue Goes Underground

EDMONTON (CP) — A controversial 364-kilogram statue sculpted by Zambian artist Berlings Kaunda is about to go underground again.

Entitled Sky and Earth, the piece has been described as "a study of male and female anatomy."

It was on display briefly at the city's Jubilee Auditorium but ended up at Beaver House Art Gallery.

SYMPHONY, BELFRY GET PROVINCE GRANT BOOST

Two beleaguered Victoria cultural organizations will be breathing more easily today as a result of increased grants announced by Provincial Secretary Hugh Curtis.

Victoria Symphony Society has been awarded $110,000 from the B.C. Cultural Fund and The Belfry Theatre has received $5,000 as an additional grant to the $15,000 awarded from the same source in the early fall.

The symphony grant represents a slight increase over last year. This is in line with other B.C. grants to arts organizations in the province, totalling $2.5 million for this year.

"We are pleased that the current board of directors has assumed a positive and responsible fiscal attitude," commented Curtis in announcing the grant.

"The earlier vote of confidence demonstrated by the increased grant from the Capital Regional District, and the support of the community, has shown the strong backing this organization has from our citizens."

Turned down in their Canada Council bid, Belfry had been faced with the possibility of closing its doors this month but after several benefits had been staged, and with the notable success of its recent production, the musical, Edith Piaf, to hearten them, artistic director Don Shipley and staff resolved to carry on with a slightly abridged season.

Public Notice

Ottawa, January 5, 1979

The Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission announces the calendar of the Public Hearings it proposes to hold during the months of February and March 1979.

Consequently, the Commission cancels the Public Hearings scheduled for January and March 1979, announced previously in its Public Notice dated July 25, 1978.

In accordance with its Rules of Procedure, before each Public Hearing, the Commission publishes a notice of the applications which are to be considered. Such notices indicate the place, date and time of the hearing, summarize the Rules of Procedure for Public Hearings and indicate where the applications, interventions and relevant documentation may be examined.

The Commission will continue to take advantage of its Public Hearings to provide residents of the regions where the hearings are held with an opportunity to speak on any matter of local or regional interest within the Commission's jurisdiction. Groups and individuals wishing to participate in this way are invited to appear before the Commission the day before the Public Hearing is to begin. Written notice of intent to appear and a summary of the proposed remarks must be received 24 hours in advance.

J. G. Patenaude,

ATTENTION:

FRANCOPHONE PARENTS

School District No. 62 (Sooke)

The B.C. Ministry of Education has developed an elementary (Grades K-7) core curriculum using French as the language of instruction.

This is a program primarily for children of Francophone parents. Children must be capable of being taught prescribed subjects in the French language. No other language will be used in this program (except for English as a second language subject).

The curriculum will parallel the English language core curriculum.

This will not be an immersion-type program for students wishing to learn French as a second language. However, space permitting, children of non-Francophone parents may be admitted if the children have sufficient understanding of French.

Depending on the location of the program, pupils may have to change schools.

AVIS AUX PARENTS FRANCOPHONES

School District No. 62 (Sooke)

Le Ministère de l'Education de la C-B a élaboré un programme cadre élémentaire (années M à 7) dont la langue d'enseignement sera le francais.

Ce programme est destiné en premier lieu aux enfants de parentage francophone. Il faudra que tout enfant inscrit à ce programme soit capable de suivre en francais tous les cours prescrits; aucune autre langue n'y sera employée (sauf l'anglais langue seconde). Le contenu du programme sera équivalent à celui du programme cadre donné en anglais.

Barber Uninformed On Land – Chabot

Lands and Housing Minister Jim Chabot lashed out Wednesday at what he called "sleazy statements from an uninformed MLA" in response to Victoria NDP MLA Charles Barber's comments concerning the sale of Crown land.

"Barber is either stupid or misinformed on how Crown land is distributed," Chabot said.

He said it is irresponsible for Barber to "plant a seed of suspicion by suggesting this land will fall into the hands of developers. That's a very misleading statement."

Chabot said earlier in the week the long-standing Socred promise to make Crown land available to individuals will be set to go in three or four months.

Barber responded by saying developers will snap up all the freed land and build more of the poor housing developments that now plague the province.

"What the developers will do is build the kind of sleazy developments we have come to know in B.C.," Barber added.

Chabot, however, said the current rules for releasing Crown land will apply.

For example, Crown land is available only to family units at one plot per family, the parcels are usually a maximum of five acres and a lease is only for three years.

If a home is built on the property during the first three years, then the family can apply to get title to the property.

Barber would rather use cliches than be informed on provincial land policies, Chabot said.

"He would rather shoot from the lip in ignorance of facts.

"If he wants to maintain his credibility he better take his position of critic a little more sincerely and become better informed," Chabot said.

His comments concerning sleazy housing are once again an uncalled-for smear on B.C. developers, the minister added.

He said that B.C. Housing Management Commission chairman Mary Kerr has invited Barber three times to visit the social housing projects throughout the province but Barber has not accepted.

$300M Price Tag Put on Red Tape

Unnecessary regulations cost B.C. economy about $300 million a year, Corporate Affairs Minister Jim Nielsen said Wednesday.

"That is not the total cost of regulations because obviously there are regulations which are necessary and have a cost factor involved," he said in an interview.

"But the excessive side — unnecessary regulations, excessive regulations — probably take $300 million of productive money from our economy each year."

Joint Cattle Feed Study

The provincial and federal governments have agreed to spend $1 million to find ways to reduce B.C.'s dependence on livestock feed from outside the province, Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan said.

A lot of feed is brought in from Alberta and Washington state, and Agriculture Minister Cyril Shelford said he would like to see increased local production and more use of some of the waste products from natural resources and food industries as cattle feed.

The money will be spent studying the use of such waste products and on projects demonstrating more efficient feeding systems.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room, etc., for rent, or property for sale; start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably by giving complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, 8:00 to 5:30 p.m. Saturday. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

Dog Laws Get Teeth

The bylaw sets licences for unspayed or un-neutered dogs at $15 while licences for spayed or neutered animals will be $5.

People with four or more dogs will have to pay a $15 kennel licence as will as individual licence fees.

An additional $5 penalty will be paid by those who put off getting a licence until March 31.

Pound officers will be able to sell or destroy dogs after they have been impounded for 72 hours.

Owners will be able to claim dogs but it will cost money. The first time the fee will be $10, rising to $25 the second time and to $75 for subsequent impoundings.

There will also be a $4-a-day charge for room and board.

The bylaw stipulates that nobody will be able to intervene or interfere with a pound officer carrying out his duties and if a pound officer believes an unlicenced dog has taken refuge on any premises he can demand to see the licence or tag. Any prevention of this could lead to a $100 fine.

If a dog escapes from the pound the owner will still be liable for impounding fees.

The bylaw also gives provision for animals to be spayed or neutered if impounded.

Farmers will now also have to pay the same licence fees for farm dogs.

The bylaw allows for compensation to people whose livestock has either been destroyed or injured by animals, the owner of the animal, if known, having to reimburse the regional district for the compensation.

The bylaw allows for the impounding of vicious dogs, which can subsequently be destroyed on order of a provincial court judge.

Directors decided Wednesday to hold another meeting to work out a budget for dog control.

March Start Cleared For New Hospital

Construction of the new Helmcken Road hospital can start in March as planned, regional planner Murray Halkett told the regional hospital and health planning commission Wednesday night.

He said recent provincial approval to proceed to the working drawing stage was a big step and permission to call tenders should be received from the treasury board by late January.

The name of the hospital has yet to be decided. The health ministry has suggested it be known as Victoria General North, and the old hospital Victoria General South.

Hospital commissioners agreed Wednesday this would cause confusion and hark back to the split-hospital controversy.

The most suitable name for the new facility, Helmcken Hospital, is already applied to the Dr. Helmcken Memorial Hospital in Clearwater, B.C. Dr. John Sebastian Helmcken was the first physician to practise in Victoria.

The commission was divided on a proposal that 100 additional intermediate and personal care beds be added to the Gorge Road Hospital. The hospital already has 300 extended-care and 99 rehabilitation beds.

The long-term care subcommittee was strongly against the proposal while the joint advisory committee, made up primarily of physicians and administrators, supported it.

The commission sent the proposal back for further study.

GARDENING

The immature fruits are apple green with dark stripes, which change to red and orange stripe when mature.

Fruits are in the two-inch diametre class, a good size for maturing in our coastal climate, and the time from planting-out until ripening is 55 days. Plants are indeterminate; therefore, they must be staked and pruned.

No mention is made of quality or flavor but, conceivably, the striped fruits could be a distinct decoration for a green salad.

Another small, fruited introduction is Early Cascade VF, bearing seven to nine fruits to a truss and weighing four ounces each. The additional note that fruit is borne "all season long" is a little ambiguous.

Maturing time is 52 days, staking is needed, and the plants are " strong, bearing tremendous quantities of fruit."

The "VF" tacked on to a name indicates the variety is tolerant to verticillium and fusarium wilts, rarely encountered locally. This introduction may be worth trying in our climate.

The next two are listed as early varieties, although 10 to 20 days later in maturing.

One is Earlirouge with bright crimson interiors, maturing in 63 to 65 days, with large and firm fruits; the other is Basket Vee, 70 to 75 days, with thick-fleshed, firm fruits of the beefsteak type.

These bear the earmarks of having been bred for the shipping trade. I would pass them up for two reasons. In a cool, coastal climate the maturing time could extend by another two or three weeks, making them a late variety for here, and, secondly, the larger fruits are always later ripening in our local gardens. It is not stated whether the plants are staking or bush.

Crimson Vee VF is a paste tomato developed at the Simcoe Research Station in Ontario for use in making ketchup and other concentrated products.

It is a staking type, bearing thick walled, crack resistant, medium-sized fruits, and was probably bred for sthe vegetable processing trade. While not a table tomato, some gardeners may be interested in trying Crimson VF for processing.

Finally, a new greenhouse forcing tomato, Ontario Hybrid Pink 774. Color is a rich rose-pink. Fruits set freely at night temperatures around 12 to 13 degrees C. Immune to species of leaf mold and tobacco mosaic in Ontario.

Locally we still consider the Early Fireball, Starfire, Coldset the standards against which new introductions should be judged.

These are good-quality, good flavored table tomatoes which have served local home gardeners well in both warm and cool summers, ripening most of the crop of medium-sized fruits before frost, and producing the first ripe fruits from July 20 to August 10, according to the season.

New introductions are always interesting to the home gardener, and many are worth trying, but the wise gardener stays with the tried and the true while testing the new.

A 17-year-old was sentenced to nine months after pleading guilty earlier to charges of breaking, entering and theft.

Dean Belway, 48 Montreal, received two additional three-month sentences, each to be served concurrently, after he admitted possession of a prohibited weapon and marijuana. The charges were laid after a police investigation into the Jan. 1 theft of $745 from a Dallas Road residence.

Alder recommended the sentence be served at the Boulder Bay because the court was told Belway benefited by a similar weekend program at the Metchosin Camp.

A city man said he hadn't made the restitution required in two 1977 probation orders because he couldn't get a job.

"Not too many people want to hire a 54-year-old jailbird," Robert Louis Michelin said but the judge reminded him he hadn't yet been jailed.

Michelin pleaded guilty to two probation breaches and was jailed a week. He was placed on an additional year's probation to make restitution on the fraud and theft charges.

A 24-year-old man was jailed for five days after pleading guilty to a breach of probation by refusing to complete 50 hours of community service work ordered as part of his probation following an August fraud conviction.

Donald Daniels, 516 Quadra, denied he had refused to complete the work because he wasn't paid for it. He said two Salavation Army employees hired to do the job sat and watched him while he did their work.

A pre-sentence report was ordered after a 20-year-old Esquimalt man pleaded guilty to assault causing bodily harm following the beating of an eight-year-old boy.

The court was told Peter Laschitz, 938 Lyall, repeatedly over several hours Jan. 11 beat the boy on the buttocks because he had not washed the dishes properly. The boy was unable to attend school the next morning.

The Crown ordered a stay of proceedings on charges of dangerous driving and driving with a blood-alcohol level over .08 laid at the same time as the impaired charge following an accident Jan. 6 involving a cyclist.

Other drinking-driving convictions: John Gray, 55, of 3414 Doncaster, fined $500; Richard Tobin, 33, of Port Renfrew, $400; Ernest Jay, 44, of 473 Carson, $400; Jeffery Wilson, 37, of the East Saanich Indian Reserve, $50.

Fund Set To Buy Sidney Is.

A Victoria group has set up a public trust fund in co-operation with the B.C. Wildlife Federation in an effort to buy Sidney Island.

The Sidney Island Committee wants the provincial government to purchase the island for park purposes, and prevent developers from taking it over.

"Anyone who contributes, no matter how small his donation, is then given an opportunity to show that he wishes the island to be preserved as well — that is shouldn't simply be paved like another subdivision," said committee chairman Stan Buxcey.

The committee intends to turn over the money it collects to the provincial parks branch provided it can convince the government to purchase the island. The property is for sale for $3.75 million.

UVic Lures the Elite

Money from the sale of University of Victoria-owned property will be used to attract outstanding professors and students to the campus.

UVic board of governors has approved awarding T.S. McPherson scholarships of $1,500 a year for up to five years to four new students.

UVic president Howard Petch suggested naming the scholarship after McPherson, who donated extensive property to the university.

Petch said the university wants to attract more outstanding students. Only four of 50 top scorers in the B.C. high school scholarship examinations last year came to UVic.

Funds from the sale of Lansdowne campus to Camosun College will be used to bring some of the world's top academics to UVic for periods ranging from a few days to permanent positions.

The money from the sale has been invested by the University of Victoria Foundation to give an annual yield of about $400,000.

UVic and the education ministry have approved using the money to attract world-famous scholars.

About $248,000 will be used for salaries and fringe benefits for permanent appointments of up to five internationally-recognized academics, Petch said.

Continuing appointments will be determined by the president, the vice-president and the deans of the faculties.

Two appointments will go to the faculty of fine arts and science, one to education, one to fine arts and one to either the law school or the school of human and social development.

About $100,000 will be used for visiting appointments lasting one or two years. Another $28,000 will be used for visiting appointments of one to three months and the remaining funds would be used for brief visits.

Petch estimated it will take at least three years to fill all five of the permanent positions with the most highly-respected scholars.

Socreds Blocked Investment Controls: Barrett

BARRETT

NDP leader Dave Barrett charged today the Social Credit government was behind the successful emasculation of the federal agency which screens foreign investments in Canada.

He produced documents from the Foreign Investment Review Agency showing that since the Socred administration took office in B.C., 63 firms with more than 5,000 employees have been acquired by American companies.

He said the Socred government did not oppose a single application although under terms of the FIRA legislation the provincial government must be consulted on each takeover before federal approval is given.

And he claimed Premier Bill Bennett's widely publicized blocking of the takeover of MacMillan Bloedel by Canadian Pacific Investments Ltd. was nothing but a smokescreen.

Barrett said the sudden Bennett opposition to Montreal's Canadian Pacific Investments taking over of Mac-Blo was simply a "sham battle deliberately used as a smokescreen" to hide B.C.'s willingness to allow indiscriminate foreign investment.

"Bennett's big mac attack is in the best tradition of Canadian politics: 'when in trouble, kick the CPR'," Barrett said.

He said Mac-Blo was an unwitting participant in a political manoever.

The NDP leader produced dozens of pages of documents — including secret reports to the federal cabinet — to back his claim that the Socreds conspired with the federal government to weaken FIRA.

Barrett quoted from statements by Bennett and some of his cabinet ministers in which they complained to the federal goverment that FIRA's restrictions were turning away potential foreign investors from the province.

He also unveiled a report from Trade and Industry Minister Jack Horner to the federal cabinet in which Horner singled out B.C. as the lone objector to the FIRA position.

Horner reported to cabinet that the principle advantage to watering down FIRA "would be removal of a major potential cause of federal/provincial conflict, especially with B.C."

Barrett says Horner opposed weakening FIRA but was overruled by the federal cabinet and FIRA regulations were watered down as a result.

The former premier accuses Trudeau of going along hand-in-hand with Bennett.

FIRA has recently been criticized as being little but a rubber stamp, having approved more than 90 per cent of all applications.

FIRA said that in 1976 nine B.C. companies were taken over which involved 1,150 employees; in 1977 26 companies were taken over involving a further 1,010 employees and last year FIRA approved 37 company takeovers in B.C. involving about 2,000 employees.

B.C. also sold Panco Poultry and Greyline Bus Tours to American companies but the sales did not require FIRA approval because they were Crown corporations.

Barrett says that virtually four-fifths of total foreign investment in B.C. has been concentrated on buying our existing business interests and assets, not creating new firms or building new industrial plants.

Gas Going Up 3¢ In April

Capital Regional District residents face a three-cents-per-gallon gasoline and diesel fuel price hike April 1, regional director Bill Tindall said Wednesday.

Tindall, chairman of the district's transit services committee and of the provincially appointed Urban Tranport Authority, said the increase will be used to finance public transportation which the provincial government is handing over to the regional district.

The UTA is expected to agree that the entire regional district, including the outer Gulf Islands, be included in the transit system when it meets Friday.

Tindall announced the expected increase Wednesday after the committee approved in principle to ask for letters patent to take over the transit system and a work program, transit service agreement and the gasoline tax bylaw.

The B.C. Hydro and Power Authority has been claiming for some time that the high cost of power has been partially due to the need to subsidize public transit systems in Victoria and Vancouver.

But Tindall said regional district residents can expect no reduction in power bills once transit is handed over to the regional district.

Instead, he said, residents can expect increased power costs two years from now. (The provincial government has agreed to a 75-25 cost-sharing formula for the first two years).

Residents will also be faced with the costs of a major bus replacement program, Tindall said, adding that Hydro made no provision for a replacement program during its years of operation.

Prices Rise More Slowly

OTTAWA (CP) - One of the best recent monthly cost-of-living reports was issued by Statistics Canada today, showing consumer prices were 8.4 per cent higher in December than one year earlier.

The November-to-November increase was 8.8 per cent.

The only month last year to equal the December performance was April, in which an 8.4-per-cent advance was also recorded.

Main factors in last month's cost of living increase were higher food and housing costs.

The average annual inflation rate is calculated by adding all monthly inflation rates — which varied beteewn 8.4 and 9.8 in 1978 — and dividing by 12.

The federal agency said the average annual inflation rate for 1978 was 9.0 per cent, up from the 8.0 per cent recorded in 1977. Most forecasters are predicting an inflation rate of about 7.5 per cent in 1979.

IT'S EDWARD

OTTAWA (CP) — To his home town friends in Beausejour, Man., and to his mom, Elizabeth, he is known as Ed.

Now that he will soon be Governor-General, he wants to be known as Edward.

That's the word which filtered down to reporters from government officials Wednesday during a briefing on Edward Schreyer's investiture Monday as Governor-General.

"It is to be Edward for official purposes," said a government spokesman. He did not know what the former Manitoba premier wanted to be called for unofficial purposes.

U.K. Delays Calling Troops

Times News Services

LONDON — As Conservative MPs jeered, Britain's Labor government decided today not to declare a state of emergency to break a stranglehold on essential supplies caused by a truck drivers' strike that is crippling the economy.

Prime Minister James Callaghan told the House of Commons a declaration of an emergency and use of troops probably would not speed up the movement of such goods as foodstuffs and animal fodder.

He said a voluntary code of conduct had been issued to the strikers by the Transport and General Workers Union (TGWU), instructing them to confine their picketing to enterprises directly involved in the dispute.

Callaghan said the decision not to call a state of emergency — at least for now — emerged from a meeting Wednesday night with Moss Evans, general secretary of the TGWU, and Len Murray, secretary-general of the Trades Union Congress, an umbrella federation representing 11 million unionized workers.

With 500,000 workers already laid off by companies starved for raw materials or glutted with output they cannot ship out, government and business leaders warned of disastrous effects on the economy if the two-week-old disruption continues. Railway service also was halted by the second 24-hour engineers' strike in three days.

The Emergency Powers Act, if eventually invoked, will empower the government to requisition trucks and order troops to move essential goods. The act was last invoked for four months in 1973-74 during a coal miners' strike.

It was under consideration because union leaders were unable to get the strikers to comply with a pledge by the leaders to free shipments of livestock fodder and other key supplies.

A food shortage, though not apparent yet on market shelves, was described as inevitable as production slumped to 10 per cent of normal. Some hoarding by shoppers was reported and some supermarkets have begun rationing.

Bread might soon be in short supply. Bakers say vital ingredients of salt and fat have not been getting through picket lines.

Fruit and vegetables from abroad are being redirected to markets in other countries because of the strikers' stranglehold on British ports.

Tesco, one of the country's biggest supermarket chains, says rationing had been introduced in certain stores and has warned of shortages of toilet paper, eggs and soap.

A spokesman said butter,

IRA Torches Gas Tanks

LONDON (UPI) — Irish Republican Army bombers blew out a storage tank containing seven million cubic feet of natural gas today and blasted a Texaco tank holding 100,000 tons of aviation fuel.

They were the most spectacular and materially damaging attacks in nearly 10 years of periodic IRA bombings in Britain.

No deaths or injuries were reported in the separate blasts at Greenwich on the south bank of the Thames River and Canvey Island, Britain's biggest fuel storage depot 30 miles east on the northern side of the Thames estuary.

An anonymous caller told police and the Press Association news service the IRA set the bombs. His call came after the Canvey island explosion but before the Greenwich blast.

Scotland Yard said it believed the bombs were set by IRA "sleeper units" activated after years of residence in Britain.

The attacks on the highly flammable storage installations came hours after police arrested four suspected IRA bombers in London.

The blast at a gas works in Greenwich on the banks of the Thames River, destroyed a storage tank filled to capacity with 7 million cubic feet of gas.

A second storage tank exploded two hours later, throwing a hazy orange glow over Greenwich.

Davis Loses Appeals

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jack Davis, a former cabinet minister with the Social Credit govenemnt, lost appeals Wednesday against a fraud conviction and sentence that forced him to resign from the provincial legislature last September.

Davis, a professional engineer and former Rhodes scholar, was convicted on charges that he had downgraded first-class airline tickets while on government business and kept the difference. He was fined $1,000 and placed on probation for two months.

Davis, conducting his own appeal, told the British Columbia Court of Appeal that it was not a crime to obtain money that was rightfully his under the law.

The province paid for the tickets and he was not asked at any time to account for the expenses.

Davis said the downgrading is done by government officials at all levels, as well as by senior armed forces personnel, the diplomatic corps and union and company officials.

Blacks Riled at Disco Discrimination

VANCOUVER (CP) — A black rights' group says some downtown discotheques are refusing admission to black customers, but one club owner says admission policies have been tightened only to clean up trouble on the nightclub strip.

"Eighty per cent of the trouble on this strip falls on blacks," said Barry Williams, owner of Misty's Cabaret, one of the Hornby Street clubs named in complaints to the Black Solidarity Association.

Association president Delicia Crump said the group will present to a city council committee next Thursday 10 written complaints from blacks who say they were refused admittance and were physically or verbally abused at local clubs. There have been many other informal complaints.

Ms. Crump said blacks not involved in the association might take matters in their own hands if city council and police don't stop the discrimination.

Williams, however, said club owners only want to protect their property and to clean up problems in the area, famous for the street-corner crowd (including known prostitutes) it attracts at night.

"Blacks have been causing trouble by dope-pushing and pimping, and we're not going for it at all," he said.

Williams said admission policies are not a result of prejudice. The club employs several blacks and has "10 or fifteen regular black customers."

However, new black customers, unlike whites, must prove "that they've got a proper job, that they're a proper citizen," he said.

When asked if innocent people might inadvertantly be turned away by such a process, Williams replied: "Unfortunately, that probably could happen."

Williams said some blacks have hassled waitresses and customers at his club, gotten into fights and then threatened violence when asked to leave. The problem has decreased since admission policies were tightened.

Harry Moll, part owner of Sugar Daddy's, another Hornby Street club, said blacks were involved in a Jan. 9 altercation that resulted in $1,200 damage to mirrors at the club.

After the incident, which allegedly began when a black was refused admission, police charged four women with creating a disturbance and a fifth with common assault.

Crump said all the women were black and that several were physically abused by club staff. Her group is trying to achieve change through legal avenues.

Williams said the association is composed of troublemakers.

She rejected Wjlliams' claim that all blacks refused admission are involved with drugs and prostitution.

"You have white pimps, but not all white people are pimps," Crump replied.

NEW MEDIATOR SOUGHT

Another mediator is being sought to speed up the negotiating procedure at the municipal level with the latest application coming from the union representing city inside workers.

Rick Doyle, president of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, Local 388, said today the executive voted unanimously Wednesday to apply for a mediator.

Earlier this week, Carl Anshelm, chief negotiator for the Greater Victoria Labor Relations Association, asked for a mediator in the association's contract battle with a joint bargaining committee, representing five other CUPE locals.

Doyle says he asked Anshelm last Thursday for a meeting and is still waiting for him to arrange a bargaining session.

He said Anshelm is getting paid to arrange such meetings and bargain for the employers, while he is getting paid as a computer programmer at city hall.

"I don't have the time he does to charge around and arrange the meetings."

He said Local 388 is also sending a letter to the mayor and council explaining the reasons for seeking a mediator at this stage.

Icebreakers to Carry Gas?

OTTAWA (UPC) — Giant icebreaking carriers could carry liquefied natural gas from the high Arctic to eastern Canada by 1983 if a $1.5 billion project proposed by Petro Canada is accepted.

PetroCan President Bill Hopper said Wednesday supplying 250 million cubic feet of gas daily to eastern Canadian customers would allow an equal amount of western gas to be sold to the United States at prices high enough to cover the cost of project in about 20 years.

The gas would be carried by pipeline from the north of remote Melville Island to a floating liquefaction plant on the south coast and loaded aboard two 335-meter-long supercarriers that would operate year-round.

Hopper said the consortium had applied to the National Energy Board for permission to export gas and had also asked the Transport Department and the Indian and Northern Affairs Department to approve aspects of the project.

The gas delivered by the $250 million ships, equal to about 40,000 barrels of oil daily, would provide the first return for companies that have explored the inaccessible region for oil and gas.

"We found about 13 trillion cubic feet, including about 9 trillion cubic feet on Melville Island," Hopper said.

The nationally-owned oil company, in co-operation with Alberta Gas Trunk Line Company Ltd. and Melville Shipping — a consortium of the largest Canadian shipping companies — wants to carry the gas eastward through the Northwest Passage and south to an eastern port.

The gas would then be inserted into an eastern natural gas pipeline that at present does not extend beyond Montreal. Applications have been made by other groups to extend the pipeline from the present terminus to Quebec City and the Maritimes.

Former RCMP Chief Dies

Funeral services will be held here Monday for R.S. S. Wilson, a former RCMP superintendent and industrialist, who died Wednesday at the age of 72.

A specialist in narcotics and counter-espionage, he was commanding officer of the St. John, N.B., Regina and Winnipeg RCMP subdivisions. During the Second World War he was security control officer for New Brunswick.

Wilson was the Aluminum Co. of Canada's personnel manager during construction of the giant Kitimat project in northern B.C., and later the manager of the firm's Vancouver works.

A former chairman of the B.C. division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, he was a member of the provincial labor relations board and board of industrial relations.

Cocaine Haul

VANCOUVER (CP) — RCMP said Wednesday that about two pounds of cocaine with an estimated street value of $500,000 was seized at the Vancouver International Airport last month.

Police said the drug was in boxes mailed from Ecquador.

The information was withheld until Wednesday to protect an investigation by RCMP and United States authorities. No arrests have been made.

The consumer price index, the normal measure for cost of living changes stood at 181.3 in December. This means a standard basket of goods and services designed to reflect normal household spending patterns, which cost $100 in 1971 had risen in price to $181.3 by the end of 1978.

Food costs were largely reponsible for last year's increases in the cost of living, the federal agency said. While the index for all items advanced by 9.0 per cent, the food index increased by 15.5 per cent in 1978.

Beef and processed fruit prices were the prime culprits in last month's higher eating costs. Increases in these two items were somewhat dampened by lower prices for selected pork cuts, chicken and fresh fruit and vegetables.

On a December-to-December basis, the cost of eating at home rose by 13.5 per cent while the cost of food away from home advanced by 9.6 per cent.

Higher shelter costs and increased furniture and appliance prices were largest non-food contributors to last month's increase in the cost of living.

The federal agency noted a drop in new car prices resulting from the reduction in the manufacturers' sales tax in the Nov. 16 federal budget.

Prices rose in 12 of 15 cities for which Statistics Canada publishes cost-of-living statistics, but the rates varied greatly. The agency said differing trends in food prices explain most of the variation.

On a city-by-city basis, consumer prices showed the following movements:

St. John's: Up 9.0 per cent from last December, mainly because of increased shelter and furniture costs.

Charlottetown—Summerside: Up 8.0 per cent from last December, mainly because of higher prices for pork, beef and restaurant meals.

Halifax: Up by 7.8 per cent from last December, mainly because of higher meat prices and charges for restaurant meals.

Saint John: Up 8.0 per cent from last December, mainly because of higher meat prices, home prices and electricty rates.

Quebec: Up by 7.9 per cent from last December, mainly because of higher dairy and bakery prices.

Montreal: Up by 7.4 per cent from last December, mainly because of higher beef dairy and processed fruit prices.

Ottawa: Up by 8.1 per cent from last December, mainly because of higher beef, bakery and processed food prices as well increased shelter and restaurant costs.

Toronto: Up by 7.8 per cent from last December, mainly because of higher shelter costs.

Thunder Bay, Ont.: Up by 7.2 per cent from last December, mainly because of increased home prices.

Winnipeg: Up by 8.3 per cent from last December, mainly because of higher prices for gasoline and women's wear.

Regina: Up by 7.0 per cent from last December, mainly because of higher prices for dairy products and fresh fruit. Shelter costs and gasoline prices also went up.

Saskatoon: Up by 6.4 per cent from last December, mainly because of higher bakery and dairy prices.

Edmonton: Up by 8.1 per cent, mainly because of higher furniture and clothing prices.

Calgary: Up by 7.6 per cent from last December, mainly because of shleter and furniture costs.

Vancouver: Up by 7.5 per cent from last December, mainly because of higher beef, turkey and fresh produce prices.

Tighter Smoke Curbs Urged

A coroner's jury Wednesday night recommended tougher enforcement of smoking regulations at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

The jury said all hospital staff should be made aware of the regulations and smoking materials should be strictly controlled for patients incapable of smoking safely on their own.

The recommendations were made at the conclusion of an inquest into the Dec. 31 death of Edward Jones, 89, from burns received when he inadvertently set fire to his bathrobe while smoking.

Hospital executive director Dr. Archie Pickles said today he agrees with the recommendations.

"Really, it's simply a matter of intensifying policies that already exist," he said.

He said every employee is supposed to attend at least once a year a lecture on fire prevention and safety.

"We may have to look at this more closely to be sure the requirement is being met," he said.

Pickles said following the Jones incident he received a letter from the fire chief congratulating the staff for its handling of the fire. The chief said the staff's quick attention prevented a major blaze.

The jury found that Jones set fire to his bathrobe, blanket and medical corset by a match or cigarette on Dec. 30. He died the next day.

Evidence showed that while Jones received extensive burns to his thigh, his pyjama bottoms were not burnt, a fact which was not dealt with by the jury.

Supplies of Danish bacon, which represent nearly half Britain's bacon consumption, have dwindled to a trickle and might disappear from shops in a few days.

Sausage production in the northeast of England has stopped because there is no packaging in which to transport food.

National newspapers, thinned by paper scarcity for a week, reported only about three to four days supplies available.

Although only 58,000 of about 400,000 truckers are on strike, the effect has been magnified by secondary picketing of supermarkets, manufacturers and other firms served by the trucking companies.

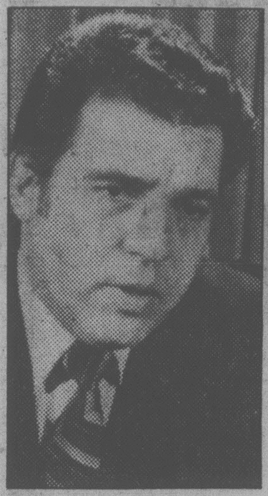
Socreds Abetted Foreign Firms, Barrett Charges



BARRETT

By PAUL NICHOLSON
Times Staff

NDP leader Dave Barrett charged today the Social Credit government was behind the successful emasculation of the federal agency which screens foreign investments in Canada.

He produced documents from the Foreign Investment Review Agency showing that since the Socred administration took office in B.C., 63 firms with more than 5,000 employees have been acquired by American companies.

He said the Socred government did not oppose a single application although under terms of the FIRA legislation the provincial government must be consulted on each takeover before federal approval is given.

And he claimed Premier Bill Bennett's widely publicized blocking of the takeover of MacMillan Bloedel by Canadian Pacific Investments Ltd. was nothing but a smokescreen.

Barrett said the sudden Bennett opposition to Montreal's Canadian Pacific Investments taking over of Mac-Blo was simply a "sham battle deliberately used as a smokescreen" to hide B.C.'s willingness to allow indiscriminate foreign investment.

"Bennett's big mac attack is in the best tradition of Canadian politics: 'when in trouble, kick the CPR'," Barrett said.

He said Mac-Blo was an unwitting participant in a political manoever.

The NDP leader produced dozens of pages of documents — including secret reports to the federal cabinet — to back his claim that the Socreds conspired with the federal government to weaken FIRA.

Barrett quoted from statements by Bennett and some of his cabinet ministers in which they complained to the federal goverment that FIRA's restrictions were turning away potential foreign investors from the province.

He also unveiled a report from Trade and Industry Minister Jack Horner to the federal cabinet in which Horner singled out B.C. as the lone objector to the FIRA position.

Horner reported to cabinet that the principle advantage to watering down FIRA "would be removal of a major potential cause of federal/provincial conflict, especially with B.C."

Barrett says Horner opposed weakening FIRA but was overruled by the federal cabinet and FIRA regulations were watered down as a result.

The former premier accuses Trudeau of going along hand-in-hand with Bennett.

FIRA has recently been criticized as being little but a rubber stamp, having approved more than 90 per cent of all applications before it.

FIRA said that in 1976 nine B.C. companies were taken over which involved 1,150 employees; in 1977 26 companies were taken over involving a further 1,010 employees and last year FIRA approved 37 company takeovers in B.C. involving about 2,000 employees.

B.C. also sold Panco Poultry and Greyline Bus Tours to American companies but the sales did not require FIRA approval because they were Crown corporations.

Barrett said in October, 1977, a wire story from Ot-

Gas Going Up 3¢ In April

Capital Regional District residents face a three-cents-per-gallon gasoline and diesel fuel price hike April 1, regional director Bill Tindall said Wednesday.

Tindall, chairman of the district's transit services committee and of the provincially appointed Urban Tranport Authority, said the increase will be used to finance public transportation which the provincial government is handing over to the regional district.

The UTA is expected to agree that the entire regional district, including the outer Gulf Islands, be included in the transit system when it meets Friday.

Tindall announced the expected increase Wednesday after the committee approved in principle to ask for letters patent to take over the transit system and a work program, transit service agreement and the gasoline tax bylaw.

The B.C. Hydro and Power Authority has been claiming for some time that the high cost of power has been partially due to the need to subsidize public transit systems in Victoria and Vancouver.

But Tindall said regional district residents can expect no reduction in power bills once transit is handed over to the regional district.

Instead, he said, residents can expect increased power costs two years from now. (The provincial government has agreed to a 75-25 cost-sharing formula for the first two years).

Residents will also be faced with the costs of a major bus replacement program, Tindall said, adding that Hydro made no provision for a replacement program during its years of operation.

Food Up 15% In Past Year

OTTAWA (CP) — The cost of living rose by an average nine per cent last year, the largest annual increase since the government imposed price wage controls in 1975.

Year-end figures released by Statistics Canada today show that food prices went up by 15.5 per cent last year and prices for all other consumer goods went up by 6.4 per cent.

Last year's nine-per-cent increase in living costs outpaced the increase in the average worker's earnings by about three per cent, preliminary indications are.

Year-end wage and salary figures have not been released by the government. But latest available statistics show that by the end of October, earnings were 5.8 per cent higher than one year earlier.

While the year-end figures provided workers with a clear illustration of why it was hard to stretch their budgets to meet the in-

IT'S EDWARD

OTTAWA (CP) — To his home town friends in Beausejour, Man., and to his mom, Elizabeth, he is known as Ed.

Now that he will soon be Governor-General, he wants to be known as Edward.

That's the word which filtered down to reporters from government officials Wednesday during a briefing on Edward Schreyer's investiture Monday as Governor-General.

"It is to be Edward for official purposes," said a government spokesman. He did not know what the former Manitoba premier wanted to be called for unofficial purposes.

U.K. Delays Calling Troops

Times News Services

LONDON — As Conservative MPs jeered, Britain's Labor government decided today not to declare a state of emergency to break a stranglehold on essential supplies caused by a truck drivers' strike that is crippling the economy.

Prime Minister James Callaghan told the House of Commons a declaration of an emergency and use of troops probably would not speed up the movement of such goods as foodstuffs and animal fodder.

He said a voluntary code of conduct had been issued to the strikers by the Transport and General Workers Union (TGWU), instructing them to confine their picketing to enterprises directly involved in the dispute.

Callaghan said the decision not to call a state of emergency — at least for now — emerged from a meeting Wednesday night with Moss Evans, general secretary of the TGWU, and Len Murray, secretary-general of the Trades Union Congress, an umbrella federation representing 11 million unionized workers.

With 500,000 workers already laid off by companies starved for raw materials or glutted with output they cannot ship out, government and business leaders warned of disastrous effects on the economy if the two-week-old disruption continues. Railway service also was halted by the second 24-hour engineers' strike in three days.

The Emergency Powers Act, if eventually invoked, will empower the government to requisition trucks and order troops to move essential goods. The act was last invoked for four months in 1973-74 during a coal miners' strike.

It was under consideration because union leaders were unable to get the strikers to comply with a pledge by the leaders to free shipments of livestock fodder and other key supplies.

A food shortage, though not apparent yet on market shelves, was described as inevitable as production slumped to 10 per cent of normal. Some hoarding by shoppers was reported and some supermarkets have begun rationing.

Bread might soon be in short supply. Bakers say vital ingredients of salt and fat have not been getting through picket lines.

Fruit and vegetables from abroad are being redirected to markets in other countries because of the strikers' stranglehold on British ports.

Tesco, one of the country's biggest supermarket chains, says rationing had been introduced in certain stores and has warned of shortages of toilet paper, eggs and soap.

A spokesman said butter,

IRA Torches Gas Tanks

LONDON (UPI) — Irish Republican Army bombers blew out a storage tank containing seven million cubic feet of natural gas today and blasted a Texaco tank holding 100,000 tons of aviation fuel.

They were the most spectacular and materially damaging attacks in nearly 10 years of periodic IRA bombings in Britain.

No deaths or injuries were reported in the separate blasts at Greenwich on the south bank of the Thames River and Canvey Island, Britain's biggest fuel storage depot 30 miles east on the northern side of the Thames estuary.

An anonymous caller told police and the Press Association news service the IRA set the bombs. His call came after the Canvey island explosion but before the Greenwich blast.

Scotland Yard said it believed the bombs were set by IRA "sleeper units" activated after years of residence in Britain.

The attacks on the highly flammable storage installations came hours after police arrested four suspected IRA bombers in London.

The blast at a gas works in Greenwich on the banks of the Thames River, destroyed a storage tank filled to capacity with 7 million cubic feet of gas.

A second storage tank exploded two hours later, throwing a hazy orange glow over Greenwich.

Davis Loses Appeals

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jack Davis, a former cabinet minister with the Social Credit government, lost appeals Wednesday against a fraud conviction and sentence that forced him to resign from the provincial legislature last September.

Davis, a professional engineer and former Rhodes scholar, was convicted on charges that he had downgraded first-class airline tickets while on government business and kept the difference. He was fined $1,000 and placed on probation for two months.

Davis, conducting his own appeal, told the British Columbia Court of Appeal that it was not a crime to obtain money that was rightfully his under the law.

The province paid for the tickets and he was not asked at any time to account for the expenses.

Davis said the downgrading is done by government officials at all levels, as well as by senior armed forces personnel, the diplomatic corps and union and company officials.

Blacks Riled at Disco Discrimination

VANCOUVER (CP) — A black rights' group says some downtown discotheques are refusing admission to black customers, but one club owner says admission policies have been tightened only to clean up trouble on the nightclub strip.

"Eighty per cent of the trouble on this strip falls on blacks," said Barry Williams, owner of Misty's Cabaret, one of the Hornby Street clubs named in complaints to the Black Solidarity Association.

Association president Delicia Crump said the group will present to a city council committee next Thursday 10 written complaints from blacks who say they were refused admittance and were physically or verbally abused at local clubs. There have been many other informal complaints.

Ms. Crump said blacks not involved in the association might take matters in their own hands if city council and police don't stop the discrimination.

Williams, however, said club owners only want to protect their property and to clean up problems in the area, famous for the street-corner crowd (including known prostitutes) it attracts at night.

"Blacks have been causing trouble by dope-pushing and pimping, and we're not going for it at all," he said.

Williams said admission policies are not a result of prejudice. The club employs several blacks and has "10 or fifteen regular black customers."

However, new black customers, unlike whites, must prove "that they've got a proper job, that they're a proper citizen," he said.

When asked if innocent people might inadvertantly be turned away by such a process, Williams replied: "Unfortunately, that probably could happen."

Williams said some blacks have hassled waitresses and customers at his club, gotten into fights and then threatened violence when asked to leave. The problem has decreased since admission policies were tightened.

Harry Moll, part owner of Sugar Daddy's, another Hornby Street club, said blacks were involved in a Jan. 9 altercation that resulted in $1,200 damage to mirrors at the club.

After the incident, which allegedly began when a black was refused admission, police charged four women with creating a disturbance and a fifth with common assault.

Crump said all the women were black and that several were physically abused by club staff. Her group is trying to achieve change through legal avenues.

Williams said the association is composed of troublemakers.

She rejected Williams' claim that all blacks refused admission are involved with drugs and prostitution.

"You have white pimps, but not all white people are pimps," Crump replied.
